SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE

TIMES, Sept. 6.—[Exclusive Dis-

started among local architects and contractors to adopt what known as the "quantity survey" method of estimating cost of new buildings by taking up this method in a way with the present system of figuring on materials and labor and plans and specifications.

At a beginning, a meeting was held at the Palace Hotel to discuss the method of the association for the council of American Institute of Quantity Surveyors, a national association in charge of being carried out throughout the United States. Temporary organization was made by the election of officers.

A statement was made of the purpose of the association for the purpose of encouraging better methods of estimating and dealing with the building and to provide for the architects, engineers, and others who may associate themselves with the common

TITANS BATTLE

FOR NEW HAVEN.

Boston Financiers in Clash

With Wall Street.

New Englanders Object to

Morgan Domination.

Commissions on Heavy Bond

Issues Are at Stake.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES)

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE

TIMES, Sept. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The retirement of J. P. Morgan & Co. as fiscal agent of the New Haven Railroad is the result of the spectacular clash of financial giants.

An internal warfare has been going on in the New Haven directory. While the road was killing people in wrecks and being attacked by State and national governments, the kings of high finance were struggling among themselves for the rich picking of bond issues.

Boston bankers were lined up against Wall street, Kidder, Peabody & Co., the foremost banking house of Boston, are reported to have taken the lead in the fight against the Morgan domination with the raising cry that New England must control its own great railway property.

The crisis of the fight was scheduled for next Tuesday at a hearing before the Massachusetts Utility Commission in Boston, on the question of apportion of the new $27,000,000 bond issue.

Even if the Morgan firm has relinquished its promise to be a contest tailor, the Morgan domination of the financial plume with its 24 per cent commission, which is to go to the Morgan underwriting syndicate. For years Morgan & Co. have monopolized

the New Haven financing, reaping millions of dollars in commissions and profits. To Boston bankers have been crowded out of a property that was built and financed on New England capital. New England capital has risen in revolt.

The active head of Kidder, Peabody & Co. is Robert Winsor, a brilliant, dashing financier of the younger generation. Kidder, Peabody &

Co., but when George W. Perkins entered the firm of Morgan, Kidder did not get on well together.

Their differences were the result of the fact that Kidder, Peabody & Co.

was a New England firm, while

Morgan was a New York firm.

Many of the rival financiers of the house of Morgan were held in subjection by the greatness of the late J. P. Morgan, have dared to confront and oppose him. They found the younger Morgan a better full of aggressiveness and ferocity, but they have ventured to come out in the open because they doubt whether he possesses the marvelous resources of strategy and masterfulness that made his father the king of finance.

Within the New Haven directorate

there has been going on a rivalry of financial forces. On the one side is Wall street, led by J. P. Morgan and William Rockefeller. On the other side the New England interests, at first not united among themselves, but

The Land Behind the City Backs Gibraltar's Strength

Dollars that grow in the soil and with the unfailing advancement of land values are recognized as the safest of assets. Gibraltar represents not only the dollar, that grows through the strength of co-operation, indisputably the fairest money-earning principle in the modern world of business activity, but also the dollar that grows with the certain productivity of the soil and THE STEADY ADVANCEMENT OF THE CALIFORNIA ACRE.

Gibraltar grows the trees, plants the acre and sells the orchard home complete. The land that backs Los Angeles offers one of the safest investments that any man can make today. Gibraltar shareholders are co-partners in the development and marketing of this rich acreage.

No city is greater than the supporting territory that surrounds it. Los Angeles has attracted the attention of the world and Southern California is regarded as the LAND OF OPPORTUNITY. Acreage back of Los Angeles must advance to a relative value more in keeping with the growth of the city. Gibraltar offers the investor a share in the profits from the development of rich, fertile valleys tributary to Los Angeles. THE EFFECT OF THE IMMIGRATION POURING THROUGH THE PANAMA CANAL UPON THE LAND VALUES BACK OF LOS ANGELES WILL BE SO GREAT THAT THOSE WHO HAVE THE OPPORTUNITIES OF TODAY WILL BE TALKING IN THE FUTURE OF THE WONDERFUL ADVANCEMENT THEY WILL HAVE WITNESSED.

Gibraltar's Immense Nurseries Insure Big Profits

Gibraltar has not only used the olive, citrus and other fruit trees grown in the great nursery system for the planting of the rich 1897-acre tract at Bloomington that has been sold so rapidly, but the millions of trees grown at low expense in quantities of millions insure substantial profits at even a fraction of the prevailing market prices.

GIBRALTAR is ahead of any company in the world in being prepared to meet the demands of the olive industry. The picklers cannot secure enough olives nor the growers sufficient trees to plant. To supplement the millions of olive trees now being grown Gibraltar will this season propagate from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 more olive trees to be used in planting the company's own acreage, and to sell at a price that means big profits on the cost of production in large quantities. California is the great olive producing State and the future certainty of this industry is appreciated by few today. THE PROFITS FROM ALL OPERATIONS ARE SHARED IN WITHOUT LIMITATION BY THE CO-OPERATIVE STOCKHOLDER.

Gibraltar shares are now selling for 22 cents, either for cash or on the installment plan of 20 equal monthly payments.

New York Police Take Steps to Suppress Two Plays Dealing With Vice Problems.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The New York police today took active measures to suppress two plays which lay their chief scenes in disorderly houses. Police Commissioner Waldo applied to the magistrate for warrants of arrest for the managers of those dramas on the grounds that they were pandering to a low standard of morals.

"From what Mr. Newberger has reported to me," said Commissioner Waldo, "these two plays are very rotten. Of course, there is a difference of opinion as to how far police power extends in a matter of this kind. My opinion is that such plays are a disgrace to the city and that it is up to the courts to say what shall be done with the men who put such plays on the stage."

The penalties for the offenses charged by the police is $500 fine or a year's imprisonment, or both. Chief Magistrate McAdoo refused to issue the warrants, but issued three summonses, returnable Monday morning.

HELD FOR GIRL'S DEATH.

Kansas City Physician Bound Over on Man-Slaughter Charge—Boys Paid for Fatal Operation.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 6.—Dr. Jacob Hall was bound over today for trial on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Meta Book, a high school girl, last August. The indictment was returned by the grand jury after a preliminary hearing simultaneously with that of Dr. Hall, who was discharged on the ground of "insufficient evidence." Dr. Hall furnished $2500 bond and was released.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators eager to hear the details of the scandal brought out at the coroner's inquest involving a number of fashionable families of the city. The principal witnesses today were boys of the so-called Armour boulevard flat branch of the Westport High School, who told of relations with Meta Book and of making up a purse to pay for the operation that caused her death.

the personal forces within the paper tend towards conservatism and to higher standards of journalistic con-

HUERTA AND MEXICO.[The Argonaut:] It is easy to believe that the popularity of Gen.
Huerta has largely increased as a result of the velle pressure put upon him from Washington. We read of a renewed loyalty throughout the army, of spontaneous offers of men and money, and of a general rally around the man who, for good or evil, constitutes in himself whatever government Mexico can be said to have. The people, in other words, are acting precisely as we ourselves should act under similar circumstances and as might have been foreseen from even an elementary knowledge of human nature. Factions, dis-contents, and plotings may flourish until the first hint of foreign interference is heard. Then they are all hurried behind the curtain in defense of a national pride that may not be of so high a type as our own, but that is all the more likely to be unreflecting and passionate.
There is much virtue in the process known as putting one's self in the other fellow's place. We can easily understand the sentiment in Mexico
if we can imagine ourselves as subjected to the same paternalism—might as well say—interference that have been applied to Mexico from Washington.The keynote to President Wilson's Mexican policy may be described as an aversion to Gen. Huerta. There was no secret about it. No doubt Mr.
Lind has delicately coated the pill with sugar, but its cathartic intentions were plain enough. Mexico must purge herself of Huerta, who must pledge himself to hold a regular Presidential election, and to eliminate himself from the running.The following editorial

Chronicle, dated September 6,

The Chronicle is a newspaper

we should feel if some foreign power, through dubiousy-accredited agents and envoys, should map out a domestic political programme for our guidance, at the same time warning us that some particular Presidential candidate would not be tolerated. That is precisely what we have done in Mexico, and with the inevitable result that Huerta is in a fair way to become a popular idol.The President's objections to Huerta may be described as of the maiden saint or the Chautauqua variety. His political piety is not of the kind approved by the apostles of the new Democracy. He does not measure up to civil service rules and he shows a lamentable lack of seal for the ballot box. Moreover, he is supposed to be a murderer. Now so far as Huerta's reluctance to use constitutional methods is concerned—if indeed there is any such reluctance—we may recall with advantage the opinion of Porfirio Diaz, admittedly the greatest ruler Mexico ever had.
A free and open Presidential election, said Diaz, would mean the nearly unanimous choice of a popular bullfighter, and he took military care, and by "unconstitutional" means, the destruction of the political capacities of Mexico have not been enlarged by the events of the last two years, and no one can know this better than Huerta. How then can we describe a Presidential policy that not only insults Mexico by a wanton interference with her domestic affairs and by a policy of humiliating dictation, but that is also capable of so pathetic a reliance upon an electoral procedure seems to be for an active and energetic "murderer," quick on his feet
and certain in his aim.

celebrate the golden jubilee of their freedom for one week in Los Angeles beginning tomorrow and ending the will begin with a dinner and a reception.Dr. J. D. Gordon, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, will deliver an address, subject: "The Negro Proclaiming His Emancipation." InGIRLS! BEAUTIFUL, CHARMING HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINETry This! Doubles Beauty of Your Hair and Stops

It Falling Out.Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you havedoubled the beauty of your hair.
Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knownlton's Danderine from an druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.Porfirio Diaz applied it persistently, and if Madero had done the same thing, if he had "murdered" the younger Diaz, who was taken openly with arms in his hands, he might today be at the head of a peaceful people. What Mexico needs is not constitutional methods, but the individual authority that can compel instant obedience even though "murder" be the only available weapon to enforce it. There is no proof that Huerta ever murdered any one, but if he wished to preserve the popularity that seems now to be coming his way he would do well to show that he intends to exact discipline in the quickest way open to him. Mexico's greatest need just at the moment
seems to be for an active and energetic "murderer," quick on his feet
and certain in his aim.

CIGARSThe above statement comes in the signature of one of the most prominent attorneys in the United States. It is a stronger statement than we have dared to make ourselves—but why shouldn't cactus be as important as the opening of the great canal? Spineless Cactus is a food for man and beast. There are two varieties—first, the fruit-bearing cactus; second, the forage, or cattle food cactus.Government statistics show there were in the United States hundreds of thousands fewer beef cattle and milk cows in 1913 than in 1911; nearly a million less sheep in 1913 than in 1911; nearly five million less hogs in 1913 than 1911. Why this decrease? The principal reason is the high cost of food for stock, which compels the small farmer to stop raising stock.

Our Cactus Acres at Etiwanda will help in a way to solve the great food problem. If our plans are carried out over 700 acres will be put in spineless cactus. The purchases of these acres should make from $1200 to $2800 yearly. These acres offer not only a wonderful money-making opportunity, but offer you a spot in California for scenic beauty and wonderfully productive soil which is unsurpassable. These acres are being rapidly taken up.

We are making a special offer of a special price for the month of September. It will mean the closing out of the first tract. The special offer in a few words is simply this: On or before October first we shall advance all the remaining acres exactly $100 per acre. If you buy now you make that $100.Daily

daily for Etiwanda, with special excursions on NurseryThis includes the care of the property for four years, harvesting and the sale of the crop, fencing and the necessary water for forcing the crop. These acres also come under our Guaranteed Crop Plan. In a few words, it means that we take an option on your crop for four years, paying for that option, and besides dividing the profits of the crop with you.

All the deeds to the Etiwanda Acres are now in the hands of the Union National Bank of Pasadena. The deed stands in our name.
You make all payments to the bank. Upon completion of your payments to the bank they guarantee a deed and certificate of title to your acre or acres.

Our new booklet is off the press. It gives all the facts about cactus, and explains our Guaranteed Crop Plan.We have no agents or solicitors. We employ, however, expert cactus men, who will talk with you about cactus at your home if you

GUADALUPE ISLAND
A YANKEE DISCOVERY.

Los Angeles Men Unearth a Buried Monument Which Bears Names of Sailor Adventurers Who, More Than a Century Ago, Visited Rugged Land Off Lower California that May Become of Great Strategic Importance.

OUT of the dim and misty past, when the Missions of San Pedro were young; when Bonaparte was the war lord of the world, and the ink was scarce dry on the Declaration of Independence; when Capt. Kidd and his pirates bold cruised the main, and it required hardy navigators to go down to the sea in ships, comes a twentieth-century sequel to a nineteenth-century voyage of discovery, brought to Los Angeles by Charles E. Davis from the little known island of Guadalupe and apparently establishing the discovery of that important island by Americans in the year 1807.

Davis and a party have just returned from Guadalupe, with a story of the discovery of a buried monument inscribed with the names of the men who found the rugged and uninhabited eruption from the bosom of the ocean.

Originally this great slab of granite, weighing probably eighteen tons, stood guard over the little bay, the only landing place the island affords, but the elements have done their work well and it was only by accident that Davis noted letters upon a jutting end of the rock uncovered by the tread of his feet 300 yards from high water.

YANKEE NAMES.

Hours of hard work followed, but finally about ten square feet of the surface was uncovered, revealing to the astonished gaze, not the Spanish legends expected, but the names of twenty or more good old-fashioned Yankee forebears, which to this day are recognized in every New England State. The names are cut deep into the solid granite to the depth of a quarter of an inch, and are practically indestructible. Over a shield surmounted by an American eagle they appear carved in old-style letters, plain and legible after the lapse of more than 100 years. Here they are:

Theophilus Yale, Eben Lamb, David Bateu, William Maples, Lewis Stowell, Lewis Cannon, Henry L. Jones, Charles Thompson, Henry Jones, Henry Melbourne, Josiah Hempstead, Nathaniel Picot, Thaddeus Beecher, of Triumph, arrived in 1807; Thaddeus Beecher, of ship Zephyr, July 4th, 1814; Clark Davis, William P. Beecher, Henry Mix, David Norris, David Dyer and Daniel Stephens.

Below the shield and in the center of the inscription is inscribed: "Samuel Chapman, landed Sept. 3, A.D. 1807. Left the 8 August, 1808." Next is the name "David Crispy" followed by a fairly good replica of an American flag with the thirteen original stars, and then in letters larger than the others the name, "E. Wright."

The record appears to be of the landing of three separate parties from the vessels Samuel Chapman, David Crispy and E. Wright, and the recurrence of the name Thaddeus Beecher "of the Triumph, arrived in 1807," and again "of the Zephyr July 4, 1814," indicates that Thaddeus returned to the island after his first visit. Perhaps Chapman, Crispy and Wright are the names of the ship's officers.

In these early days sailing was not

Steinway

The choice of England's reigning family for three successive generations.

When Queen Victoria appointed Steinway & Sons exclusive Piano Manufacturers to the English Crown, it may have been said at the time that her choice of an American instrument was an accident. But the fact that King Edward VII, who followed her to the throne, also chose the Steinway, removed the choice of these matchless instruments from the realm of accidents. The present Ruler of England, King George V., also appointed Steinway & Sons exclusive manufacturers to the royal court.

Throughout their successful careers, the members of the great House of Steinway have consistently refused to commercialize this matchless Piano. The Steinway standards are even higher today than ever. Europe makes good Pianos. The same is true of America. Yet when music lovers want the BEST, they select The Steinway.

SUIT TO FORCE SALE OF IMPERIAL SYSTEM.

THE foreclosure suit against the California Development Company assumed a new phase yesterday, when Col. W. H. Holabird, the receiver, qualified as commissioner to sell the property, by filing an additional bond of $250,000. The decree was entered January 4 last by Judge Bordwell.

There were three creditors of record, the bond holders, the Southern Pacific Company and the New Liverpool Salt Company. Among the bond holders is BOSS DUNCAN of this city, who holds about $145,000 of the bonds. He is the interviewer in the suit. His attorney, acting under the statute covering such cases, yesterday applied to the clerk of the court, asking for a writ compelling the receiver to sell the property at the law provides. He was supported in his application by the attorney for the trustees of the bonds.

In Judge Bordwell's decree Receiver Holabird was appointed commissioner to sell the property. He was already under bond for $250,000 and by filing the new bond for a similar amount is now under a total surety of $500,000.

The manager of one of the largest mines in Mexico said yesterday that no American is saying in the republic unless he has some powerful reason for keeping him there and that the warning of President

HEBREWS HERE TO AID WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT.

Back to Palestine.

"Back to Palestine" movement which this city yesterday and today is the center of, has a definite purpose when a committee of the Jewish people to the Hebrews of their race applied for a charter of "Ananah"—land holdings—is the purpose by which the Hebrews will be organized. It is capital-ized for $10,000 and the shares placed at $100 each payable in ten years. The shares, $12,000 of the total, have been taken by nineteen subscribers, all but one of whom live in this city.

The local organization has $1500 in the Anglo-Palestine Bank, a branch of the Jewish Colonization Bank of London. The president is Morris Kaufman, No. 114 South Main street. Charles Eisenstein, the secretary, in addition to these, are Harry Frank, No. 412 South Main street, and Charles Loenstein.

The general plan of the movement is to purchase land in Palestine, on which the poor of the Jewish race can make homes, and establish them- selves in agricultural pursuits, al- though the colonization movement is not confined to the needy Jews, for there are several of the Los Angeles subscribers who contemplate removal to Palestine when their land is developed.

The Los Angeles company will work in conjunction with a similar one in Cleveland, the two buying land and machinery jointly.

The first of these associations in America was formed in St. Louis, by Simon Goldstein, who with his own and several other families from that city have established a colony in Palestine. There are two associations in New York City. Chicago and Cleve- land each has one, and there is one for the State of Connecticut. One of the strongest of all the associations is in Winnipeg, and it has already sent $50,000 to Palestine.

Back of the longing of a scattered race to return to the country from which they were driven, is a purpose more dominating even than that. It is the desire to preserve the identity of a nation and to prevent it from becom- ing lost through assimilation with other peoples; to preserve from ex- tinction a literature which has ac- cumulated during thousands of years, and the restoration to life of a nation at tongue, long thought dead. The Hebrew language is now the vernac- ular language of the colonists in Palestine.

It has since become, and is possible that beneath the rocky surface of the island unknown treasures may be hidden. When Davis again came to the place he will be prepared to examine the entire rock in the hope of finding additional data. In the event the discovery of the in- habitants may be of the utmost im- portance in the event of a war with Mexico, or with a foreign power it is a source of great value.

It is enough to provide a coal- mine and is said to be rich in iron. It is entirely off the or- dinary lines of travel and for that reason has remained practically un- known for all these years. Some- times, Spanish friars, probably, im- ported a few goats to the island, and the presence of these animals are its only resource barring an occasional visit of the sea there to kill them for food.

The island is 240 miles from San Francisco and 100 miles from the nearest part of St. Thomas. It is surrounded by deep water and a fleet of submarines could easily find shelter beneath its precipitous slopes. Its strategic position to both the United States and Mexico is great. The original discovery by Ameri- can sailors was made in the War De- partment's discovery of the island.

When Davis and his as- sistants on their visit was the first of a genuine boat-landing, and a small boat was used to land the party. No trace of the unfor- tunate sailors could be found, and the only find was another specimen of the sea. Davis advances the theory that it may be the last of a series of fish, washed in upon the island and wrecked.

Room-Making Sale in Ready-to-Wear Department

The Most Notable Event of the Year

Summer Garments Regardless of Cost

To accommodate the largely increased business of this department, and relieve the congestion occasioned by the unusually large stock of fall garments already here—and daily arrivals—WE MUST MAKE MORE ROOM. This can only be done by the immediate clearing out of summer garments—which we offer Monday—and as long as they remain—at Marvelous Reductions. In some cases the savings are so sensational as to be almost incredible. Space will not permit of mentioning all the garments, but we wish to especially emphasize the offering of three special lots containing about 500

Summer Dresses for Street and House Wear

Reduced to $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00

Sizes for Misses and Women; also Extra Sized dresses for large women. Sizes up to 51

These prices are but a mere fraction of their real worth. You will be greatly surprised when you see these desirable dresses at such low prices—and note the wonderful saving on each. Some of these dresses have not been in stock less than a month. All new summer models. Made from sponge, rayon, silk, tissue and linen.

We have arranged to have extra salespeople to wait upon the throngs that will come for these extraordinary values—so that you are assured the same courteous attention that prevails under ordinary circumstances.

Fashion's Favorite Models for Fall

Coats, Suits, Dresses and Three-Piece Suits

A visit to this department will reveal to you a handsome collection of new garments that present evidences of superior style and quality at reasonable prices. Our showing is larger and more diversified. Priced unusually low for high-class garments.

Three-Piece Suits $60.00 to $100.00

That distinctive style elegance, so peculiar to high-class apparel, is manifested in our three-piece models. One garment takes the place of two—a handsome suit and beautiful dress all in one. Chiffon broadcloth, silk crepe, Jacquard wool broads, self colored corded suiting are among the favored fabrics.

Novelty Suits $35.00 to $200.00

Modish coats, cut in quaint and unusual ways. Skirts with a suggestion of drapery, collars and cuffs trimmed with fur, velvet, plaid, camel cloth, fancy reverses, are among the latest whims of fashion. Rayon crepe, ottoman, duvetyne, Jacquard broads, crepe, self colored, broadcloth, cut velvet, rough cheviot and corded suiting are very fashionable. Note sketch of suit on left. Cuir colored duvetyne, black camel cloth, collar and cuffs, novelty cut sleeves.

Nobby Fall Suits $18.50, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00 and Up

Sizes for misses and women. Plain and fancy tailored models in the assortment. Diagonal, serge, broadcloth, Jacquard broads and mannish suiting.

New Wool Dresses $12.50, $15.00, $18.50, $25.00 and Up

In the assortment are dresses of serge, sponge, black and white check, Jacquard broads and poplin. New one-piece models, with girles and snail, cut with long coat effect. Some have jaunty bolero effect. Girles of satin or Roman striped silk, others with vest, collar and cuffs trimmed with fancy velvet.

New Silk Dresses $17.50, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00

Beautiful dresses made of silk poplin, crepe de chine, crinkled silk crepe and satin charmeuse. Smart models in black and fashionable fall tones.

We wish to especially emphasize our comprehensive showing of

Silk Poptlins

"The Queen of Dress Fabrics"

We give this regal title to this fine material because it drapes so gracefully and gives to the figure the modish lines of prevailing fashions—it also possesses wearing qualities not equaled by any other fabric of light texture. Our showing particularly embraces the three following styles that are selling very freely:

40-inch Silk Poptlin $1.25

A splendid value, and at the price is unsurpassed. Shown in a good range of desirable shades, also black.

43-inch Silk Poptlin $1.75

This cloth has a rich looking luster, is very supple, and a universal favorite. Very satisfactory in every way.

40-inch Crepe Silk Poptlin $2.25

An entirely new fabric shown for the first time in our Broadway windows. This material is somewhat heavier than the plain poplin, and is well adapted for developing the smart three-piece suits. Terra cotta, Italian blue, porcelain, wistaria, concord, pinkish, taupe, silver, amethyst, Copenhagen, Havana, olive, puce, wild rose, hallostrupe, marine, Burgundy, delft, prune, champagne, reeds, apricot, ivory and black are among the most favored shades.

The Week.

"THE LURE" CROSSES THE CONTINENT TO OPEN HERE.

Big Shubert Show at Majestic—Last Week of "Mme. Sherry." With "Girl in the Taxi" to Follow at the Burbank—Good Bills for the Vaudeville and Motion Picture Houses.

THE big New York success of the present season, "The Lure," which is even now running to crowded houses at the Maxine Elliott Theater, there, is to be immediately seen here in Los Angeles at the Majestic Theater this Sunday evening and throughout the week. Owing to its immense hit and the supreme interest now manifested in its subject—that of the white slave traffic—this thrillingly realistic drama has been jumped direct across the American continent to this city. Its engagement at the Majestic will be limited to positively one week only, as it goes then to San Francisco for a run.

There will be matinees on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday. The United States Department of Justice has endorsed this dramatic "The Lure," as being the one genuine and decisive play upon this terrible national evil and the New York press was unanimous in its praise of the piece as being a tremendous dramatic success. The New York American described it as being "more daring than 'The Easiest Way' and more thrilling than 'Within the Law.'"

Acton Davies, the eminent critic of the New York Evening Sun, declares of it: "This white slave drama is the most powerful play by a new dramatist, the strongest since Eugene O'Neill made his debut in 'Paid in Full.'"

It also goes so far as to say that "it will be a long time before another dramatist equals the intensity and power of the second act of 'The Lure.'" George Scarborough, who wrote this drama, which has been the sensation of the New York season, was for years a special investigator for the Federal Bureau for the Suppression of the White Slave Traffic, and Stanley W. Finch, head of that bureau, the greatest authority on this subject in America, has published an open letter commending the absolute truthfulness and power of Mr. Scarborough's life-like characters and dramatic situation.

"The Lure" is not the invented fairy tale of a playwright who has sought the theme; the life work of Mr. Scarborough inspired his play, hence its emphatic effectiveness. The "cader" who lures innocent young girls into white slavery, the "cader" who holds them in her shameful prison-house, and the politician who is a silent partner in this hideous commerce of young girls are all depicted in their true colors, earnestly and with a moral that goes home to the hearts of the spectators. The secret service agent and the young girl who are also given dramatic interest in this play, the second act of which shows the rescue of the girl from the house of shame. This second act is said by all the New York reviewers to be one of the most wonderfully thrilling ever put upon the stage.

As for the company which is to interpret "The Lure" at the Majestic, it is every whit as admirable an organization as the cast now playing the piece at the Maxine Elliott Theater in New York. William J. Kelly, who only recently played the title role of "Ben Hur" all over the Pacific Coast and in the New York theaters, will be the secret service agent, while Beatrice Prentice, who distinguished herself as a leading lady with Robert Edson, will be the rescued girl.

DRAMA AND THE WHITE SLAVE.

BY HENRY CHRISTIE WARRACK.

HENRY WARD BEECHER had not been across the Styx an hour until he wrote friends on the other side saying that Moses had confided in him that he did not write the first five books of the Old Testament, but that he knew who was to blame. I do not know who invented the white slave, but I suspect Adam. I never knew Eve, but, in my judgment, Adam could not have held his respect, and here too, so he chose her. She was happy for an hour and then she had him arrested. When they put him out of the garden, the accusing witness kept tagging along. Ever since he kept on tagging, and it is a sight of comfort to have her around.

We have been having a great run with the white slave here of late. Some wicked cities she is graft for the police, and holy horrors for the vice commissioners, and other emotionally excitable persons; in villages chemically pure, with a bluish warranted not to fade, she is political capital; but on the stage and in print, yet unplayed drama, I find her rather poor picking.

Somewhere asked Carrie Nation if she objected to the smoke of a good cigar. The lady with the hatchet replied that she did not know, because she had never smoked one. I don't know if I object to the white slave in a good drama, or to a good white slave in a poor drama, for I have yet to feel confident of either combination.

Seeing such plays is a good deal like eating soup. The maximum desideratum of most soup is the dress. We eat it for its impurities. We sometimes drink a clear soup where every swallow is a promise, yet when you get to the bottom there is nothing there. Gradually it dawns upon your cheated appetite that you have been sold.

My quarrel with the white slave in the drama is, first of all, that I never find a person whose report of herself I can accept on trust. She is, for the most part, written by women who never saw her or by men who cannot understand her. The trouble with our so-called realism is that it is usually the most unreal stuff that ever broke into print, and also that artists (?) who want to do that sort of thing never by any chance take a subject which it does any good to

We cannot blame the stage and Leslie's Weekly for getting all out of her they can. Unpleasant is a serious article and a new line of it is a blessing to the box office. The white slave answers wonderfully because women have always wanted to know about her and the men have never told them. The only man who talks to his wife about the forbidden is one who is forty different kinds of a fool at the same time. The less she asks him about how he knows these things, the more often she will ask herself. Tears over a past that a man never had never yet improved a wife for breakfast.

Women go to see "The Escape," "Help Wanted" and "The Traffic," and now they will go to see "The Lure," with the belief that they are good and they want to make the world so. Half of this is true. The other half is self-deception. The

PHIL HARMONIC TRIPLE COURSE.

Innovation of Matinee Concerts and Recitals.

World Famous Singers to Be Heard During Season.

Paderewski, Hofmann, Bauer, Cassini, Elman Coming.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

It was once difficult to realize the full importance of two yearly Philharmonic courses. Now that the problem has been rendered more complex by the addition of a third course, it seems best to present a calculated form of these forthcoming entertainments.

Each one of the Evening Philharmonic courses will be composed of six events. In addition, a third series, playing only in matinee, will be opened on November 1 or 2 for the benefit of music lovers living out of town.

This new course has been created to answer many requests from suburban residents unable to come in the evening. The artists appearing in the third course will be different from those playing in either of the evening series.

The dates have been so arranged throughout the season 1913-1914 that many will be able to take advantage of the reductions in price and attend the three series, beginning in October and closing in April.

The sale of season tickets will open on or about September 15 at the Auditorium.

First Series.

Geraldine Farrar, the Metropolitan prima donna soprano, will open the first series on October 2, presenting a program of unusual merit. She will have the assistance of Alvin Schroeder, violinist, whom many will remember as cellist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and later in the Kneisel Quartette, as successor to the famous Anton Heikling.

Arthur Rosensteel, a talented accompanist, will be at the piano. This will be Miss Farrar's debut in the West, and that she will be royally welcomed cannot be doubted, when one recalls the ovations she received in the East and Europe.

Always beloved and yearly growing more popular with the public, Ernestine Schumann-Heink returns to Los Angeles as the second artist of the course, coming to the Auditorium November 15. This great singer needs no introduction.

No artist at present before the public is so absolutely sure of a sold-out house at every appearance, and no other artist offers a more satisfying program at each performance.

Manager Behrmer has selected for this course a well-known American baritone, Charles W. Clark, who will appear at the Auditorium on January 15.

The eminent position this singer has attained among the world's leading vocalists is due to a combination of the essential qualities that command success in special styles of singing, and versatility. His programs range from the old Italian masters of the eighteenth century to modern French, German, Russian and English composers.

A welcome announcement for the lovers of piano forte, teachers and students, will be that of the return of Joseph Hofmann on January 27. The violinist on this series will be the famous Fritz Kreisler, on February 24. Kreisler, like Schumann-Heink, occupies a unique position in the musical world; everyone loves his art and enjoys to the utmost the program which he interprets with such rare charm and musicianship.

The closing number on the series will be a combination of artists that will assure a rare evening of instrumental music. Jean Gerardy, the violinist, heard here five or six years ago in joint recital with Eugene Ysaye, and later in a recital of his own, will be heard again on March 21, with Gabriel Ysaye, the master's son, and Andre Benoit at the piano. A combination of three artists of rare individual excellence, Gabriel Ysaye was not heard in any solo last season when here with his illustrious father, but gave a good accounting of his virtuosity in the Bach Concerto for two violins.

"SECOND SERIES."

The second series is equally well balanced, presenting world famous instrumentalists and vocalists, commencing November 4 with Mme. Frances Alda of the Metropolitan and closing May 1 with the Pioneers Chamber Music Concert. Among the prima donna sopranos regarded as pre-eminent, none has attained a greater popularity than Mme. Frances Alda, the gifted and beautiful wife of Guita Gatsmi, the manager of the Metropolitan. Her American debut, which took place only a few seasons ago, was marked by a triumph of the first order. Since her debut she has maintained the position she instantly created for herself on a stage where the most distinguished artists of the world have been singing for years. She will have the valuable assistance of Frank La Forge, already a favorite here, and Guita Cassini, the brilliant Russian cellist, who, when here last season with Mme. Schumann-Heink, made such a favorable impression, thanks to his faultless technique and great tone quality.

The pianist of this series will be the peerless Ignace Jan Paderewski, coming in recital the evening of January 12. When Paderewski was last heard in Los Angeles he enjoyed a triumph in this city that probably has never been accorded any other instrumentalist. The huge Auditorium was packed from floor to dome, with another audience on the stage back of the concert grand piano. Since his visit here he has been enjoying a series of continued triumphs through Europe and South America, with intermittent, much-enjoyed variations in his lovely home in Switzerland.

Two favorites will return on the evening of February 5, Mme. Clara Butt, the English contralto, and Kennedy Rumford, baritone. These two singers were heard in two matinee recitals at the Auditorium last season, and the many who were unable to be present in the afternoon will welcome an evening appearance. Mme. Butt, after leaving her last March, left almost immediately for Australia, where in joint recital with her gifted husband, they created a furor in Melbourne that not even the favorite Melba succeeded in surpassing. The programs will range as usual from the simpler English ballads to the more serious Beethoven, Bach and Schubert songs.

John McCormack, Irish tenor and prime favorite all over America, will be heard as the fourth artist on this second series, while Yvonne de Treville, the coloratura soprano, will present on February 17, a program unique in its novelty. In costumes historically correct she will interpret the songs that were the favorites of Jenny Lind, Gerster, Nielsen and the prima donna of the past generation, Mischa Elman will close this second series on April 23.

THIRD SERIES.

The matinee course will be opened by either Emilio de Gogorza, the Spanish baritone, on November 1, or by Frances Alda on November 1. The pianist will be a favorite of past seasons, Harold Bauer, on November 15, while Kathleen Parlow, the brilliant young Canadian violinist, will make her debut on the Pacific Coast on this course on January 17. Mme. Clara Butt and Kennedy Rumford will give a farewell concert on February 14, while the Pioneers Quartette will close the series on May 8, presenting one of their usually splendidly interpreted academic chamber music programs.

By purchasing the course tickets at the beginning of the season, one has to make no other trips to the box office during the entire year, thus eliminating a vast amount of wasted time and energy. The patrons are

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

DEL MONTE, Sept. 5.

Gwendolin, dearest: I had no time to say good-by to you before leaving Los Angeles and so did not see you again after that pumpkin wedding. It certainly was an Arabian Nights affair, wasn't it? With a luxurious oriental flavor that was decidedly poignant. Those M. W.'s do know how when they elect to show off. Too bad that that little evening paper to damn poor J. C. with that ghastly apology. Rotten taste! Fancy publicly stating that the poor dear makes up in virtue and respectability what he lacks in worldly goods! The men are chaffing him brutally about it, needless to say. Didn't Florence look an angel? There was no "sacrificing-my-life-for-you" attitude about her. She looked supremely happy and radiant.

Well, I wish you could have been with us. It is quite delightful here, of course, and everyone is wearing their most becoming clothes and sweetest tempers. Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ochs are the gems of our Los Angeles people, so far as regards general deportment and chic, but our party will be augmented by a further supply tonight. Mrs. Dudley Fulton and Mrs. E. H. Williams (she holds the Coast championship title for the women's golf, you know) will both be here to keep up the credit of the southerners.

Ever so many smart San Franciscans here—the Crockers, Russells, Halsteds, Furnivals, Nichols, et al., and that interesting Jack Neville, the champion for a day or two longer—our own E. S. Armstrong of the Midwick Country Club means to relieve him of that honor if possible.

It is the last day of the polo, too, so the place is simply flooded with nice men. I can bump into a somebody or an anybody or a nobody all over the place. Mostly men from the Los Angeles Country Club, so far as I can see. They are all looking a little self-conscious in beautiful new clothes. I notice no one seems to be trying to wear out their old clothes up here!

Interesting people seem to be arriving all the time—the San Francisco girls are very smart, but look a bit party as to face. That's probably late hours, not climate.

So Ethel Sargeant is engaged—and another naval lieutenant! Really, there ought to be a close season for these young naval men; they seem to be engaged up the moment they show themselves. A very susceptible crowd. Gertrude W. was married to one of them in Seattle a day or two back—Lieut. Willard Sperry. He is a nephew of W. H. Crocker, and Princess Poniatowski is his aunt, too. Very nice boy, they tell me. Gertrude says she will bring him down for us to look at after Christmas.

And, while on weddings, did you know Gwendolin Blake had married Edward de Krum at Honolulu? He is an Oregon man, they tell me, and some people here were at the wedding. You remember Gwendolin was over a year ago and we gave her a thoroughly good time at the country club.

Mr. Turf is here, but he will go north on Tuesday to see Mrs. Turf and Marjorie off for that lovely European trip. They certainly anticipate a good time and are laden with introductions to stylish people.

Did you hear about that notice on the M.'s country place? It seems that M.'s hospitality had become an institution and several of his friends made a regular habit of autoing out on Saturdays; you know what a nice run from town it is. The M.'s always put them up for the week-end, no matter who came, but evidently it was taken advantage of—as usual. Friends gradually took other friends—strangers of the M.'s and even chauffeurs and maids, nurses and children were casually dumped on the M.'s for a couple of days at a time. Rather a tall order—and a severe test of friendship. But the worms turned at last and a party that motored down last week were confronted with a sign-board on a tree at the entrance to the grounds to the effect that garage accommodation and suitable quarters for servants could be had at the hotel a mile away, where "the domestics can await the pleasure of their employers!"

Isn't it too bad that a genial host should actually have to defend himself like that? But yet there are people who consider the sign in bad taste!

There are two girls here who are causing a good deal of comment because they both wear stylish and ravishing pink, and dash about in a white and gold car. But no one seems to know who they are or where they came from. They seem inseparable and self-contained—all alone, dine alone, ante alone, looking distinctly pretty. We are all rather curious about them.

The women's side of the golf here does not begin until next Tuesday. So many of the southern women golfers won't come up till Monday. The prize is quite captivating. I must do my best to bring one home.

How's Margaret's little affair progressing? There is a sentimental love-light in her eyes these days that bodes ill for liberty and untrammelled freedom. They might as well announce it and be done with it.

I hear Mrs. E. K. F. is going to undertake to launch Elizabeth—so Elizabeth may be launched. But I doubt whether anyone else but Mrs. F. could do it. Such a lumpy, heavy, dull girl—not a sparkle anywhere. But Mrs. F. will dress her and take her about in the right set. She may be able to cultivate the clinging-vine style, which still attracts many men, and, as Mrs. F. says, matrimony is Elizabeth's only hope.

Well, beloved, sorry you are not with us. Do write soon to your

Beyond the Night.
The city lights are bright with flame
where up and down the street
The city's gleam flares up the way for countless drifting feet.
And yet, I often turn away, where through a window pane
A dim old-fashioned candle light shines down a country lane.

The city has a thousand songs—a multitude to sing:
A thousand voices creep the night
where dim cathedrals ring:
And yet I often turn away where all the morning through A mocking bird calls back to me across the silver dew.

The city has a mighty voice—a siren voice that calls
Where fame is pleading night and day
within her star-crowned walls:
And yet I often turn away where
in the fading light
A waiting mother used to call her boy in from the night.

The same flowers banded the plate and sideboard in the dining-room, while sitting on a handsome red lace centerpiece on the large round banquet table was the birthday cake surrounded by sixteen golden candles. Decorating the cake were clusters of golden glow. Gold-edged place cards were tied to the glasses with yellow ribbons. From this charming hostess one always expected something unique, and this was no exception to the rule. A dance was enjoyed between the courses, which, in a way, called a progressive dinner, as the gentlemen chose a different partner for each course, taking that lady to the dinner table for the next course. Learned read the marriage lines in the presence of only immediate relatives. The bride was dressed in white chiffon over white satin and carried a shower of lily of the valley. Miss Clara Bull, the only attendant, was robed in blue chiffon over blue satin. Throughout the home a green and white color motif was used and roses and ferns employed in decoration. A wedding collation was served after the ceremony, following which Mr. and Mrs. Bower left immediately on their wedding trip to San Francisco. Mrs. Bower has long been prominent in social affairs here and on her return from the north it is expected she will again take an active part in social events.

Last evening Miss Ethel Kunsman, daughter of Mrs. Sarah White, No. 14 North Madison avenue, was married to Fred Kohnke, the ceremony which a pleasant hour was spent at the Casa Verdugo cafe on Seventh street.

Mrs. J. J. Meyer of No. 2713 Severance street will provide Wednesday at a tea party given as a farewell courtesy to her friends, as she will leave in the near future for the East where she will again pass the winter in New York. The trip will be made in company with her son, Robert G. Meyer, who is returning to Cornell, and a niece, Miss Oliver of New Jersey, who has been a guest at the J. J. Meyer residence for three months.

Surprise Evening.
One of the lovely affairs of the past week was the surprise party planned by Representative and Mrs. William D. Stephens for their daughter, Miss Barbara, and her betrothed, Lieut. Randolph Talcott Zane, U.S.M.C. The young people had been enjoying the day at Catalina with friends and, returning in the evening, were greeted by a number of close friends hidden to the home by Mrs. Stephens. Dancing was a merry feature and later a dainty collation was served.

Mrs. Stephens asked among her guests Gen. and Mrs. Robert Wankowski, Judge and Mrs. William Rhodes Hervey, Mrs. Charles W. Hinchcliff, Miss Elizabeth Wood, Miss Alice Preston, Miss Caroline Reynolds, Robert Stephens Davis, Weston Wilson and Fred Reynolds.

Date Chosen.
Miss Kathleen Spring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amasa Spring, is another young bride-elect who has chosen St. John's for her wedding and the service which will unite this attractive young woman to Theodore Cadwalader will be one of the representative events of the season. September 10 is the date chosen and the matron of honor will be Mrs. Lawrence Field Kelsey, sister of the bride, and the best man will be Morris Cadwalader. Mrs. Silby Spaulding and her sister, Miss Aileen Spaulding, were also members of the bridal party, but owing to the death of their father Miss Spring has changed her plans.

Miss Conroy to Wed.
Miss Emma Conroy, whose engagement to Reginald Lloyd-Jones was recently announced, will be married September 10, the service to be held at the family country place at Lankershim.

Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee entertained informally last week for Miss Conroy at their home on Magnolia avenue.

At Ocean.
Little tots from the Los Angeles Orphan's Home who enjoyed the delightful entertainment provided by Watt Moreland of the Moreland Motor Truck Company and C. T. Among those who contributed to the children's enjoyment were the managers of the Breakers Cafe, Pasadena, Carousal, Rosemary Theater, City Jail Punsia, Ocean Park Bathhouse, Casino Cafe and Imperial Ice Cream Company.

By SIR ARTHUR

the limelight. Things are quiet, so friend Challenger sees a chance to set the public talking about him. You don't imagine that he seriously believes all this nonsense about a change in the ether and a danger to the human race? Was ever such a cock-and-bull story in this life?"

"You had a crap once before with old man Challenger," said he, sternly, "and you were downed and out inside of five minutes. You can't expect to beat Sumnerlee, he's beyond your class, and the best you can do with him is to leave him alone." "I know," said I, "he has been a good friend to every one of us. Whatever his faults may be, I can't believe he ever speaks evil of his comrades."

"Well said, young fellow, my lad," said Lord John Ruxton. Then with a kindly smile he slipped Prof. Hervey's arm and said, "Come, Hervey Professor, we're not going to quarrel at this time of day. We've been too much together. But keep on your guard, my boy, for the longer you hang on, the more dangerous for this young fellow and I have a bit of weakness for the old dean."

"Sumnerlee was in no humor for company," said I, as his face was screwed up

"As to you, Lord John Roxton," he cracked, "your opinion upon a matter of science is of as much value as the view of a shotgun would be in yours. I have my own judgment, sir, and I have made up my mind. I have no way to change it once, so that that reason why I should accept without question the views of a man of your rank, which this man may care to put forward? Are you to have a Pope of Science, and a Pope of Literature, and a Pope of the Drama, and accepted without question by the faithful? I tell you, sir, I will have no more of this. I will have a man should feel myself to be a mob and a slave if I did not use it. If it pleases you, I will have a man of your rank and other and Frauenberg's lines upon the spectrum, do so by all means, but do not ask me to believe in the existence of a man so much wiser than yourself to share in your folly. Is it not evident that if there were others, they would be wiser than the which he maintains and if it were phenolized to human health, the reason for which was "to protect you upon ourselves." Here he laughed with uproarious triumph over his own argument. "You said," he continued, "very well, but we are not normal persons and instead of sitting quietly and discussing scientific problems in a calm and collected manner, we are exhibiting actual symptoms of the poison which was working within us. Where do you see the signs of this poisonous chemical disturbance?"

I felt more and more angry. There was something very irritating and aggressive about this man's manner.

"I think that if you knew more about the facts you might be less positive," I said.

Summies took his pipe from his mouth and fixed me with a stony stare.

"Why what do you mean, sir, by that?" he asked.

"I mean that somewhat impertinent observation," I said.

"I mean that when I was leaving the office the news editor told me that a telegram had come in confirming the general belief and stating that the lights had not been lit in the Straits

"Really, there should be some limits to human folly!" cried Summerlee, in a positive fury. "Is it possible that you do not realise that ether, if for a moment we adopt Challenger's preposterous supposition, is a universal substance which is the same here as at the other side of the world? Do you for an instant suppose that there is an English ether and a Sumatran ether? Perhaps you imagine that the ether of Kent is in some way superior to the ether of Surrey, through which

"This train is now bearing us. There really are no bounds to the credulity and ignorance of the average layman. Is it conceivable that the ether in Sumatra should be so densely as to cause total insensibility at the very time when the ether here has had no appreciable effect upon us whatever? Personally, I can truly say that I never felt better in my life."

"That may be. I don't profess to be a scientific man," said I, "though I have heard somewhere that the science of one generation is usually the fallacy of the next. But it does not take much common sense to see that as we seem to know so little about other it might be affected by some local conditions in various parts of the world, and might show an effect over there which would only develop later with us."

"With 'might' and 'may' you can prove anything," cried Summerlee.

"Pigs may fly. Yea, sir, pigs may fly—but they don't. It is not worth arguing with you. Challenger has

"I must say, Prof. Summerlee, that your manners do not seem to have improved since I last had the pleasure of meeting you," said Lord John, severely.

"Upon my word, sir," said Lord John, very stern, and rigid, "if you were a younger man you would not dare to speak to me in so offensive a fashion."

Challenger.

Summerlee thrust out his chin with: "I don't go," said Austin.

"Little wagging tuft of grater beard. "I would have you know, sir, that, being or old, there has never been a more fit person to go, who would speak my mind to an ignorant coxcomb—yay, sir, an ignorant coxcomb. You had as many titles as slaves in the Indies, and fools could not be pleased, and then, with a tremendous effort, he mastered his anger and smiled, and then, with a tremendous effort, he mastered his anger and smiled and a bitter smile upon his face. To me all this was dreadful and deplorable. Like a wave, the memory of the night swept over me, the good comradeship, the happy, adventurous days—all that we had suffered and worked for and won. That I should have come to this! "Suddenly, he was sobbing and sobbing in loud, gulping, uncontrollable sobs which refused to be censured. My companion looked at me with surprise. I covered my face with my hands.

[illegible][illegible]

then the slow, hesitating dignity with which he paraded his own rail-tick station and the head-on smile he regarded everybody around him. If he had changed in anything since the days of old, it was that his points had become more numerous and more great sweep of forehead, with its mastered lock of black hair, seemed even greater than the old. His hair, a more impressive cascade, and his clear gray eyes, with their insolent and sardonic wilds, were even more masterful than of old.

He gave me the amused hand-shake and encouraging smile which the old master would use to open the way, and, having greeted the others, he helped to collect their bags and air cylinders of oxygen. He showed me and then away in a large motor car, and then I came ashore by the same impetuous Austin, the man of few words, whom I had seen in the char-

of us upon the subject of the first to the professor. Our journey led us up a winding hill through beautiful country. I was in front with the chauffeur, but behind me my three comrades seemed to me to be all talking together. Lord knows I was still struggling with my buffalo story, so far as I was concerned. I could not hear the despicable of Challenger and the insistent accents of Summerlee in high and strong tones. I was not listening. I started his mahogany face toward me without taking his eyes from his steering-wheel.

"What do you say, said he.

"Dear me," said I.

"Everything seemed strange to-day. Very odd and queer, unexpected things. I don't know what it is. It's forty-seven times," said Austerliff, reflectively.

"When do you go?" I asked, for I was not listening to the observation.

CHAPTER II.

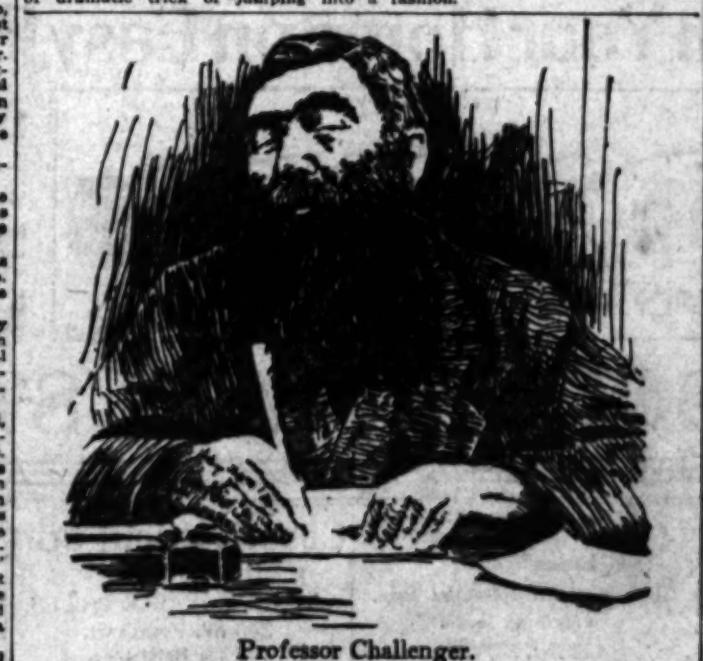

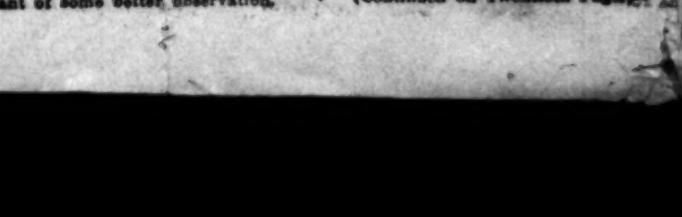

The Tide of Death.

As we came to the hall the telephone bell rang, and we were the voluntary auditors of Prof. Challenger's end of the ensuing dialogue. "My wife," but no one within a hundred yards heard the words of the boarding of that monstrous voice as which reverberated through those rooms. His answers fingered in our minds.

"Yes, yes, of course, it is I."

Yes, certainly, the Prof. Challenger, the famous professor, who called on the telephone, and who, if it, otherwise I should not have been taken. I shouldn't be surprised. There is every indication of it. Within a minute

Join Us in Our Fight Against High Prices

We never did believe in the old-fashioned idea of "one per cent. profit."

We have never considered it proper to make a profit of one hundred per cent., plus freight, on Furniture and other Household Goods.

Of course, we would get that much—just as others do—if we desired. But we're wise enough to know that our output would be cut to a minimum. We would weaken our Purchasing Power. We could not get bedrock prices if we did not buy in tremendous quantities. We must sell our Merchandise on a small margin of profit in order to move our tremendous stocks. You are familiar with our Maxim:—"Not how much we can get, but how much we can give you for your money." That's the principle we've followed for years; that's the reason we've been in business for the first six months of this year exceeding one per cent the same period of 1912. And we're going to keep our record during the next six months! We're enthusiastic about tremendous progress—every Brent employee is enthusiastic.

This can mean nothing else but Success. All our employees are trained people. When you come to Brent's, you receive attention from the clerk who waits on you—the same man from the bookkeeper who records your purchase—the same courtesy from the delivery man who delivers the Goods to your home. We've taught them this policy—they follow it. Our employees at Brent's quickly "get into line"—or they get out.

AMERICA LAGS AT ART SHOW.

A Sorry Figure at Poster Exhibition in London.

Roman Baths Are Revived at Aristocratic Mayfair.

A Wave of Kleptomania Is Reported in Society.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

LONDON, Aug. 22.—America is very badly represented at the exhibition of post impressionist posters and advertising placards that is now open in London. The only strictly American artist whose works figure on the walls is Anne Estelle Rice, and, evidently conscious that one is not enough to represent a continent, the promoters put J. D. Ferguson forward as a representative American, saying though his works are the work of a Scottish artist and are printed in Paris "they are commissioned by a New York firm on whose judgment and taste they reflect the highest credit."

The main object of the exhibition, however, is to show the latest ideas in every other branch of design now in vogue in Europe, and Frank Rutter, the art expert and organizer of the affair, admits: "Since the retirement from the boardings of the brothers Bergeret and the death of Aubrey Beardsley and of Henry Ossipenko, England has had many capable poster artists, but none of outstanding genius."

"For real initiative in the advertising art of today," he contends, "the world has to look to France, to Switzerland and especially to Germany, for the United States lags hopelessly behind. France in poster designing, as in every other branch of modern art, has good claims to be regarded as a pioneer nation. Nevertheless we must not forget that the father of the French poster, Jules Chéret, received his lithographic training in London in the sixties. Returning to Paris he revolutionized the posters on the boulevards, and though rarely using more than four colors, he obtained light and gay effects with a dash and brilliance never before attained and rarely equaled since. Of Chéret's work the famous art critic and author, Huysmans, once wrote: 'There is more talent in one of his posters than in most of the pictures which cover the walls of the Salon.'"

"The German poster is younger than the English or French one. Up to the nineties of the last century, as says Meyer-Schoenemann of the Deutsche Museum at Hagen in Westphalia, attempts were made to compose placards which exhibited a medley of photographic faithfulness and sticky color masses and which lacked clearness in shape and form. These placards, however, were not recognized as such until finally arranged in a matter which was effective in the hustling competition of modern industrial and commercial towns. Besides Van de Velde, who worked for the Tropen Company, Thomas Theodor Heine created the first modern posters for the Simplicissimus publishing firm, at that time newly founded. The appointment of the lettering was a matter of great importance, and the letters were shaped ornamentally and suited to the article portrayed in a flat and decorative style, on the surface of the paper the article stood out as a colored patch in the complete picture on the poster."

"In addition to this well-considered harmony, the advance work of Peter Behrens exhibited the metallic ring of his 'relentless iron rhythmic art,' while the Berlin School of Bernhard Kluge, Gloppe and Scheurich developed the 'surface' style still further. The Munich tendency centering around Ludwig Hohlwein, now fosters the love of the 'surface' style, and while Czechoslovakia and Bohemia obtain their effects through strict geometrical reproduction of the object and by capricious lettering."

"The same characteristics apply to German wrappings and printed matter. The modern German merchant has at last acknowledged the part that form plays in public life, and has consequently reformed all such insignificant things that fly in the thousands through the world as letter paper, wrappings, cards, forms, advertisements and labels."

POST-IMPRESSIONISM.
The fact is, however, this post-impressionism is a name to conjure with in the exhibition world. The clever showman realized this long ago. The use of the word, however slight the pretext may be, means increased admission fees. It stimulates curiosity even in connection with a poster exhibition, although the end state of our present-day boardings unfortunately bears witness to waning public interest and the fact that, in poster design, commercialism has ousted art, and that after a brief period of triumph, the "golden age" of the poster has come to an end.

Perhaps post-impressionism may lead to a revival. The shrewd business man cannot close his eyes to the fact that the chief function of the poster is to attract immediate attention; and the bold simplifications, the often exaggerated emphasis, the very crudities of what has been termed post-impressionism certainly catch the eye, whether you stop to admire or to jeer.

REVIVE ROMAN BATH.
Within two years the great Roman bath in the aristocratic district of Mayfair will be in complete readiness. It is claimed that this will bring about a complete change in the lives of fashionable London people, inasmuch as, having sea water at their very doors, they will not need to journey miles for the privilege of enjoying a bath in the sea. It is believed that it appears it is not the first time the notion of importing the sea to London has cropped up. In the dim past a quarter of a century back, a plan to accomplish the same thing was arranged. However, means and ways were very different at that time, and the efforts did not mature. It is the

SNAGS VIENNA KLOPFMENT.

Austrian Swain Confides Plan to a Barber, Who Happens to Be His Sweetheart's Father.

VIENNA, Aug. 22.—Looking very spruce and conscious of his lavender gloves, Friedrich Wassenhoff, a young clerk of this city, recently entered the barber's salon he usually patronizes. He asked to be shaved. "You must give me a specially good shave today," he said to the elderly man who was stirring up the lather. "Indeed," said the barber. "Getting married?"

"How did you guess that?" asked the astonished Friedrich, and touched by the sympathetic way in which the barber stropped the razor, he entered into details.

His sweetheart was pretty Helga Blum, only 15 years old, though she looked older. Her parents were strict, and interviews had to be snatched by diplomacy. It was troublesome, yes, but he had found a way out.

Here he paused, and the barber interposed a sympathetic "Zot!"

Friedrich had borrowed a friend's auto; in ten minutes he and Helga would be driving side by side to the registrar's; in half an hour they would be man and wife.

Half an hour after, when Helga and Friedrich hurried from their auto into the registrar's office, Helga cried out in fear.

"There's father," she screamed, and fainted in Friedrich's arms.

It was Friedrich's father, and Friedrich is still unmarried.

Stuart, Mudge Tried in Venezuela on Charge of Having Caused Athletic Opponent's Death.

(ST. A. P. MOST WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Stuart Mudge, the American youth who was tried in Imataca, Venezuela, upon a technical charge of murder, was acquitted, according to a dispatch received at the State Department Tuesday.

Mudge was engaged in an athletic game with a Venezuelan youth when the latter received fatal injuries.

The American legation at Caracas appointed an agent to see that Mudge had a fair and impartial trial and his acquittal was expected by officials here.

BRITONS SLAIN BY MAD MULLAH.

Tribesmen Surround Force in Somaliland Desert.

Surplus of Kaffir Corn to Be Sent to America.

Crop Will Be Taken Over and Fed for Cattle.

(Special Correspondence of The Times.)

LONDON, Aug. 31.—British taxpayers are worried over the prospect that precedent and prestige may demand another war against the Mad Mullah in Somaliland.

Just before Parliament adjourned the country was disturbed by news of another "incident"—one of the old familiar stories. Two thousand of the Mullah's tribesmen surrounded a British camel company of 150 natives, with three white officers, at a point 100 miles from Berbera. The little force was forced into a "warrior" or fenced camp to defend itself against superior numbers.

The Mullahs, "are the significant and laconic words in the official report to army headquarters. Capt. Corfield and fifty followers were killed. Capt. Summers was seriously wounded and the command fell upon a boy lieutenant named Kingdon.

Capt. Archer, at Berbera, heard of the ambush. At the head of twenty men he forced his way to the rescue and was successful in bringing the remainder of the camel corps, with twenty-three wounded, back to the coast. The corps lost in killed and British officer and fifty natives wearing British uniforms had been taken to all traditions this calls for punishment.

Of Britain's "little wars" in many parts of the globe none have been more costly in lives and money, and none more fruitless, than those enacted against the dreary desert background of Somaliland. A raid by the Mullahs, a punitive expedition, a battle, the Derwishes scattering, and then the whole futile programme over again. That was the cycle of events for twenty-five years after the British landed on the coast. Finally the taxpayers and the army became disgusted with the game, and the Liberal party in 1912 adopted "the policy of reticence" as the Imperialists bitterly called it. They withdrew the troops into dry coast garisons and gave Mohammed Abdiullah his independence, so that it would be hands off all around.

This latest episode, however, may force a change of policy. The only reason Great Britain holds Somaliland is because it could be used as a base for possible operations against the British coaling station at Aden, across the Red Sea. Possession in this case means protection, and the reason for strategic protection cannot be ignored.

KAFFIR CORN PLENTY.

It would seem, from present indications, that the farmers of the west who have raised too much Kaffir corn for domestic consumption need not worry about the surplus, which is likely to come to Europe as the result of the efficient salesmanship of Uncle Sam's business agents, the members of the consular service.

This service has shown its efficiency by its response to an inquiry made by an American railroad as to the possibility of disposing of the surplus of the enormous Kaffir corn crop expected in the Southwest this season. From the European headquarters in London, the railroad, which says the Kaffir corn belt in the Northwestern States, sent inquiries to the American consulates in Europe asking them if it would be possible to interest the various European countries in their jurisdictions in Kaffir corn.

Even in the United States Kaffir corn is a new commodity, and in Europe it is only a name, but in spite of their heavy losses as to what they expected to interest the grain dealers in the Consols almost overwhelmed the railroad bureau with the addresses of dealers and requests for further information.

TURKS LOSE TOBACCO LAND.

Greece or Bulgaria to Own Country Where Finest Specimens of Wood Is Grown.

(A. P. Correspondence of The Times.)

VIENNA, Aug. 22.—The fields producing the best Turkish tobacco in the world, the kind that is sent to Constantinople for the consumption of the Sultan, and which, at the highest prices in the American market, are about to change ownership. For centuries they have belonged to Turkey; today the contest between Bulgaria and Greece for the "Sultan's possession" of the port of Kavala, in southern Macedonia, will decide their future owner.

In the rich country behind Kavala grows the best tobacco in all the Turkish empire. The finest quality comes from the mountain slopes, the crops raised in the plains being more remarkable for quantity than quality. The best of all comes from the left bank of the Karasu River, above Kanli, and is renowned throughout the tobacco world under the name of Gubek. This is the product that brings the highest prices, both in Europe and the United States.

The industry at Kavala has been built up by the Turks slowly and carefully, through many centuries. Turkey makes the best tobacco growers in southeastern Europe, and the commercial success of whatever power finally becomes possessor of this rich tobacco district, be it Bulgaria or Greece, will depend largely on whether or not the present Turkish cultivators are permitted to stay and labor for their new masters.

The Greeks are not inclined to careful agriculture in the tobacco fields, and while the Bulgarians make good farmers, they have had comparatively little experience in tobacco growing.

The story of Turkish tobacco on hand at the present time are so extensive, however, that it will be two or three years before smokers of real Turkish cigarettes will experience any shortage as a result of the Balkan War.

GREEK PAPER DENOUNCES CARNEGIE COMMISSION

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES)

SALONIKA, Sept. 6.—The newspaper Liberté, in denouncing the Carnegie commission for the investigation of alleged atrocities committed in the Balkans, to the membership of which both Servians and Greeks objected, says that the Greek government asked for an inquiry as long ago as July 15, but wanted judges and arbitrators, not counselors and prosecutors.

Moreover, the paper continues, it is too late now for a useful investigation as the victims are buried and all the real evidence is obliterated. Finally, the paper declares, the commission was not an impartial one. Prof. Mitkoff and Dr. Brailford representing Russia and Great Britain, respectively, being notoriously in favor of the Bulgarians.

AMERICAN BAR SETS EXAMPLE

BRITISH LAWYERS REVIVE IDEA OF NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The idea of establishing in England an organization similar to the American Bar Association has been revived among British lawyers by the detailed reports which are published here of the present American association meeting in Montreal. The Law Society serves the purpose as far as the lower of the two branches in which the legal profession in England is divided, but the bar remains without any machinery for gathering opinions among lawyers as to important legal matters, for the bar council is neither a representative nor a powerful body.

The address of the British high commissioner in Montreal Monday was published fully here, with the prediction that Lord Haldane's utterances will help powerfully to cement Anglo-American amity. The Daily Telegraph says that the historian may some day look back upon it as one of the chief events leading to a new and beneficial relationship between three great peoples, the United Kingdom, the Dominion of Wales and the United States.

The Daily News says: "A year or two ago an attempt was made to effect a permanent arbitration treaty between this country and the United States. It failed for reasons which we repeat, but peace between the English-speaking races rests on a surer basis than any arbitration treaty. It is founded on the common conscience to which Lord Haldane referred yesterday and there are abundant signs today that the example which the Anglo-American race has given to the world will bear fruit in still wider spheres. If the democracies of Europe are true to the principles of the abolition of armaments, not to be so remote a dream as Lord Haldane seems to suppose."

FRANCIS BORN'S BAPTISM

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 6.—According to orthodox rites, was carried out with great pomp in the presence of Russian envoys, and Ferdinand's position was humiliated. Strangers to say, his own subjects revolted against the breach of faith which weighed so heavily on their beloved Prince, and even Russia's approval did not mend matters. A wave of criticism and contempt which found expression in the Bulgarian press proved the general indignation. Many seized the opportunity to vent their private spleen against a Prince whose attitude of superiority wounded their democratic pride. The following from Den is an instance:

"We take exception to the term 'Bulgarian' as applied to us from a certain quarter. The pronoun 'my' is an anathema. We Bulgarians belong to nobody and want the attempt to class us with the 'other' nations. Lackways may be thus designated, but we are no lackways. This is the sense of Louis XIV."

Nevertheless, Ferdinand, having accomplished his purpose of ingratiating himself with Russia, now began to put things straight. He decided it was necessary that his wife should return. But Marie Louise desired nothing more than oblivion. Her maternal instinct, however, strengthened by the insistence of the Pope, and Ferdinand's explanation, she finally prevailed. She returned to her old duties, resuming her good works, but with the loss of life's extinguished forever within her. It is said that the last she remembered of her father's reproach over passed her lips and she gave no outward sign that her husband had forfeited respect. To the last she remained in his faithful devoted partner, and her careful advice saved him from many pitfalls which he had been about to fall into.

With terror she sounded the alarm of the dark soul that could instigate the assassination of his Premier, Stambouloff, when he dared to oppose him. Vainly did she plead with him to bridge his ambition and devote himself to the real progress, and solid development of the country rather than to his own personal aggrandizement. While she lived he made a pretense of disassociating himself from the work of the confidants in Macedonia, whose outrages filled Europe with horror.

"God will never bless crime," was her constant warning. "And someday Macedonia will be lost to us through the evil deeds of our wild propagandists."

She was probably the only person who knew whether Ferdinand's secret hopes tended, and she foretold that disaster would come at the moment when his star seemed to be in the ascendant. When in the recent war luck turned against him, the soldiers murmured among themselves: "Why is this what our Prince foretold. Every sin demands its punishment."

CAREER OF FERDINAND

After death, King Ferdinand, desirous of restoring the great state functions which were a vital feature of his court, looked around for a hostess who would show the throne which from being princely had now been raised to the status of royalty. But it was not easy for him to find a mate. No Catholic princess would give him her hand; he made several overtures at the Russian court, but there were no Graces. Duchess Fortunate, finally, however, a Protestant princess of the House of Reuss consented to abandon her spinsterhood and occupy the place left vacant nine years ago by Marie Louise.

Watches Ferdinand

personal inclinations of Marie Louise were all for the cloister, where, indeed, several of her sisters have since found a home, but in deference to her father's wishes she gave her hand to Ferdinand and set off with him to work for the advancement of Bulgaria.

Almost every educational and charitable institution in the country owes its origin to her initiative. In a short time she achieved what he had vainly attempted—the reconciliation of his subjects to a foreign ruler. Legends of her beauty and devotedness still survive among the people today. When as heir to the throne was born, nothing seemed wanting to the happy outlook. But this very child, who should have set the seal of her happiness, became the cause of discord and ultimately led to the untimely death of his mother, Russia, who had viewed with disfavor the coronation of Bulgaria under a Prince about whose election she had not even been consulted, and came forward with her inextinguishable demand that the future ruler of Bulgaria should belong to the orthodox creed or forfeit recognition by the powers.

Ferdinand's mind was soon made up, but it remained to him to persuade Marie Louise. Thunderstruck at the alternative, she at once refused to consider what her conscience told her was an act of apostasy. During two whole years she succeeded in getting the matter deferred, but as Russia grew more insistent, and Ferdinand more anxious for his crown, she was forced to face the inevitable. Resistance availed no longer, and as a last protest she left the country.

The baptism of Prince Boris, according to orthodox rites, was carried out with great pomp in the presence of Russian envoys, and Ferdinand's position was humiliated. Strangers to say, his own subjects revolted against the breach of faith which weighed so heavily on their beloved Prince, and even Russia's approval did not mend matters.

*Declares Serbia and Greece
Were the Principals.*

Many people know what Bulgaria is really accomplished. We have many faults, but we are conscious of the fact that we have wronged no one. We wanted to free Macedonia. Our neighbors, jealous of our might, are doing all they can to balk us in our efforts to gather all Bulgarians under a roof.

TITIAN'S IDEA.
When Titian painted the picture, says Poppensreiter, he was describing vividly the following story as told by Ovid. The poor nymph rises early, alone, at night and walks the forest, the scene of her past love life with Phaon. The rays of the morning sun illumine the distant hills, and she gazes long and anxiously at the grass, the scene of her love, and finally comes to a sacred well over which trees hang. At that moment there appears to her the youth, who first came to her to herself from the Leucadian cliffs into the sea, and then vanishes. Poppensreiter says that this is the only thing in literature that is so beautiful as the background in the illumined town.

Some art historians, however, deny the existence of the violet. But Olga Steinmann declares that Violante's existence is proven by the repeated use of her by Titian as model. She appears in the "Mystical Nativity" of the violet. The face of this beautiful woman appears twice in the misnamed "Heavenly and Earthly Love," and also in "Rubezahl" (as the girl in the red dress). She is also as "Salome" in the Doria gallery in Rome, as "Maitresse de Titien" in the Louvre, as "Vanitas" in the Berlin gallery. She also appears altogether in six different pictures by Titian, and in a seventh picture by another artist—the "Violante of the Doria." In four of these pictures appears the attribute of violets, and this, and the absolute similarity of features between her and the Palma Giovane "Violante" and the "Violante of the Doria" pictures are one and the Tuesday by ~~Wm. Heath~~ ~~Heath~~ of the zoology department of Stanford University, who has been investigating bird life along the south of Alaska coast during the past several months. The auk, he said, is a nocturnal bird about the size of a large pigeon. It burrows as much as fifteen feet in the ground where it makes its home. Upon his trip Prof. Heath investigated the report that native Alaskan birds were destroying the king salmon, a mission he conducted for the Audubon Society. He found this report to be untrue.

SHIPPING. Clearinghouse Declares Globe Bank More Than Safe—Company Shows Excellent Condition.

Officers of the Clearinghouse Association regard the condition of the bank as very satisfactory.

When John W. Wilson, special inspector for the Clearinghouse Association, made a careful study of the bank's accounts two weeks ago, he reported that institution in better condition than it had ever been.

Speaking of the bank, one of the Clearinghouse Association officials stated that conditions could scarcely be improved on if merely for the fact that the bank, despite the little run, has served no notice to its depositors demanding the legal limit of this country's currency.

In addition to this, he stated that the bank's assets are more than sufficient to meet its liabilities.

The statement of the Los Angeles Investment Company, showing numerous properties purchased for and sold at their original sale price, is a further assurance to stockholders of the strength of this financial institution.

"We paid $5000 per front foot for our lot at the corner of Ninth and Broadway several years ago and today it is worth $1000," said President Elder.

On the books it is appraised at the original purchase price. "Our assets today, according to the appraisal of three of the leading real estate men of the city, very conservatively figured, are worth more than $20,000,000, while we have against this just a little more than half in stock issued, another indication of our financial strength."

Only a few hysterical persons, having heard the wildest kind of rumors about the company, yesterday decried to sell their stock and were grabbed up in a moment by brokers as well as investors who realize its full value.

On the Los Angeles Stock Exchange the closing price was $1 per share, a rise of several cents.

The streets have been full of wild rumors about the company, but there is no basis for them; it is perfectly solvent.

HANGTOWN REPRODUCED. Los Angeles Native Sons and Daughters to Give Entertainment.

Nearly every resident of Los Angeles and Southern California has heard, or read, of the stirring events in California just succeeding the discovery of gold at Colorado.

Through the combined efforts of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West of this city, an opportunity will be given, during an early week in October, for every Los Angeles resident to be a temporary discoverer of California's most famous gold-mining town, and to participate in all the thrills of the discovery.

Near the spot where Marshall discovered gold, was a place called Hangtown, now designated by the title of Placerville, which is the county seat of El Dorado county.

Hangtown, during October, will be set up in the heart of Los Angeles, with all the accessories that made it famous in early days.

There will be gambling houses, dance halls, mines, Chinese houses, miners' cabins, "49ers," and all the thrills of the discovery.

Right in the midst of the busy life of this southern city, with all the thrills of the discovery.

The purpose of the festival is to raise funds wherewith to entertain the Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, which will meet in the city the third Monday in April of next year.

At that time upwards of 1500 men, born within the confines of California—more of them in the gold region—will be the city's guests for a week, and the local members of the order desire that the entertainment be accorded them.

Prior to seeking this meeting, the members of the convention league was routed and granted, and Los Angeles was victor in the contest for entertaining the 1914 Grand Parlor.

The festival will be a most interesting and profitable one, and will afford an opportunity of witnessing a full-fledged California mining town of the early days.

Not alone will the '49 festival provide a means for the accumulation of a portion of the funds necessary to entertain these visitors, but will afford the contributors an opportunity of witnessing a full-fledged California mining town of the early days.

Dutch Colonial Home for Hollywood Site.

House for Harry H. Hillman. A. Burnside Sturges, architect.

ON FORMER OHIOANS.

Los Angeles Architect Plans Homes for Clients of Fifteen Years Ago. Both Places in Hollywood. After having planned homes in Toledo, O., for Harry H. Hillman and his father, W. C. Hillman, Architect Burnside Sturges, who came to Los Angeles from the Buckeye State in 1903, is now, fifteen years later, supervising the construction of handsome houses for both men in Hollywood. The dwelling for the younger Hillman, who is a director of the California National Supply company, of this city, is now nearing completion on Fuller avenue, just south of Hollywood boulevard. The home of W. C. Hillman is being built on Orange drive.

In planning the residence of Harry Hillman, Sturges followed the architecture of the Dutch colonial type. The living-room is 16x22 feet in size and contains a large brick fireplace. In the first floor, in addition, are a large dining-room, reception hall, den and kitchen. The second story contains four bedrooms, a sleeping porch and two baths.

ADAPTED TO SETTING.

Chalet Home of Los Angeles Contractor to Occupy Site in Santa Monica Canyon District. A large Swiss chalet residence designed by the Commonwealth Home Builders' company, is now being erected in Santa Monica Canyon. The house was especially designed to meet the particular requirements of the locality, being situated on an elevated plot of ground overlooking the entire northwestern part of Los Angeles, as well as miles of ocean front. The exterior of the dwelling is handled in the Swiss style and the heavy timbering is one of the special features. Split shakes stained dark brown will be used to cover all outside walls. The roof will be of a dark green shade of composition. A wide terrace and porch will extend across the front of the house a distance of 104 feet. Below the terrace line the front will be treated in tapestry brick. The pilasters and heavy porch columns will be handled in the same manner. An amusement-room, gymnasium and billiard-room will be located in the basement, which opens directly on to the lower terrace level. On the first floor will be a living-room 14x22 feet in size, occupying the main right wing of the building. The dining-room, 12x12 feet, will occupy the front part of the left wing. The main hall, 20x22 feet, will be between the two wings. A conservatory and breakfast-room will open directly into a large open patio. On the second floor the house will be cut up into numerous suites of two and three rooms each. The interior woodwork will be of quarter-sawn oak. Hardwood floors are provided throughout. All interior details are carried out in the old English style.

WEST SIDE TRANSFERS.

The McCarthy Company reports recent sales in the Westlake-Wilshire district as follows: To P. V. Gentry, northwest corner West Ninth street and El Molino, 100x125 feet, $7550; W. F. Jantzen, 50x125 feet, west side Fedora street, between West Eighth street and West Ninth street, $2250; Howard G. O'Hara is improving the latter site with a seven-room house.

SEELS TO KANSAS.

Demand Reported for Acreage in Vicinity of Westminster—Improved Ranch Sold for Good Figure. WESTMINSTER, Sept. 6.—Frank Johnson, has just sold to Merton Hoack, of Topeka, Kan., his ranch of thirty-seven acres, adjoining Westminster, on the west, for a reported consideration of $225 an acre. Hoack will improve the place and make his home here.

Karl Haggen has purchased two buildings on Main street of J. B. Lowling, and moved his drug store into one of them. The other will be used for a dwelling.

Charles Boker of Norwalk sold his ranch of forty acres to Wells McCoy a few days ago. This is one of the oldest places in this neighborhood and joins Westminster on the northwest. Boker recently erected a seven-room bungalow on the place. The price paid for the property is said to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. It is planned to sugar beets, of which there is a good crop.

RECOMMEND NEW ROAD.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 6.—The Huntington Beach Board of Trade last week recommended to the voters a bond issue of $25,000 to macadamize Seventeenth and Main streets, the city streets that connect with the Orange county boulevard system. This amount of money has been calculated by the engineers to furnish a first-class concrete base and macadam surface. Seventeenth street connects with the county boulevard at the city limits at Clay street. A portion of Ocean avenue from Main street east to the edge of the bluff is also to be improved. Huntington Beach will then have first-class roadways within its limits as connections with the boulevard system from the inland towns and also with the beach highway, which is now under construction from Long Beach to Fullerton.

BRENTWOOD PLACE SALES.

The James R. H. Wagner Company, agents for Brentwood Place properties, reports the sale of ten lots in that subdivision to the following purchasers: R. T. Allen, lot on Twenty-fifth street, $175; F. E. Hafler, lot on Twenty-third street, $1100; Margaret Moore, lot on Twenty-third street, $975; and lot on Twenty-fifth street, $1475; Ella E. Cook, lot on Twenty-fifth street, $875; Minnie L. The building will be 52x110 feet in size and will have a glazed brick front. The seating capacity of the theater portion will be 450. The owners state that their total investment will be about $16,000, and that they will themselves operate the property.

IMPROVED SERVICE.

The service to the South Coast beaches over the Pacific Electric has been greatly improved since the changing of the schedule and point of starting on August 26. The new order call for the cars leaving from the Los Angeles-street terminal, in the rear of the station. During the day the cars leave Los Angeles on the seven hour and run as limited trains to Zafra and beyond as local. Leaving Balboa the cars now leave at twenty minutes after the hour instead of thirty-five minutes after as heretofore.

La Fortuna Farms

Record Crowd and Plenty of Sales at La Fortuna Opening

The opening of La Fortuna Farms and Townsite yesterday was a big success. We expected a large crowd—but nothing like the number of people who attended. So many came that we were obliged to change from automobiles to a special Salt Lake train to get them there. Everybody had a good time, and we sold twice as much property as we expected. La Fortuna Townsite, is now on the map, and new buildings will be under way immediately.

Townsite Lots Sell Rapidly

There are many investors who believe townsite property offers the biggest quick-profit opportunity in realty investments. Our sales show that there are many people of this opinion—and the demand for town lots keeps up steadily.

Acreage In Demand

La Fortuna Townsite, is surrounded by many ranches now under cultivation, and the acreage sales made yesterday will largely increase the number of 5 and 10-acre ranches adjacent to the townsite. La Fortuna Farms were in big demand yesterday.

It is not my desire or in-

Santa Monica's Climatic and Pleasure Advantages Superior in Many Details

Santa Monica, the coast resort de luxe, from Panama to Portland, greatly surpasses in many details the advantages of the famed Riviera, both from the health and pleasure standpoints.

"See America first" is every year becoming a rule of which American travelers are realizing the importance more and more. Santa Monica, the coming greatest health resort of America, has none of those drawbacks to in any way injure the health of its residents.

Almost all of these ailments which are not benefited along the Riviera can be much helped, if not entirely cured, at Santa Monica, which is being demonstrated daily with the various sufferers, as well as countless other ailments from which health seekers are finding instant relief or complete cures each year.

the mine's situation are both excellent, and the property yielded fair value when worked by the pioneer miners more than sixty years ago. The famous old Eaglebird quartz mine at Mammoth, Nevada county, has been taken under bond and option by W. M. Wilson, understood to be representing Los Angeles interests. E. C. Klinker, manager of the Outomah mine at Nevada City, has been selected to superintend the work of reopening the Eaglebird. The mine is one of the most famous in the county and is credited with a total output of $2,000,000. Of late years the mine has received scant attention, largely because of lack of finances by owning interests. The deposits are large and of free-milling character. With modern mining and reduction methods the property promises to again become a heavy gold producer. Flumes and buildings are under construction, and underground work will start shortly. The days of the Argonauts, when sturdy forty-miners with pan and rocker washed fortunes from the river banks, are being re-enacted along the Feather, Yuba and other rivers in the central districts. The prolonged dry spell has lowered the rivers to such a point that portions of the beds, hitherto inaccessible, are now being worked for their golden sands. The rivers are said to be lower than at any time in eighteen years and many of the old-time prospectors report good clean-ups from the ancient gravel bars.

A COPPER TEST.
The Balaklava Copper Company made a test of its Hall dephosphurizing plant at Coran last week, using a small furnace in the trial. The test was made to determine whether the apparatus was in shape for active service, and proved satisfactory. The first of a series of trials with the plant under actual working conditions is being made. It is stated that early results have been encouraging and that production with two of the huge blast furnaces will start in a few days. Plans are also being worked out for the disposal of the immense quantities of sulphur which will accompany dephosphurizing of the ores. It is planned to educate the agriculturists to the use of sulphur as a fertilizer, and in this way to find a market for the sulphur. The steady operation of the Mammoth smelter at Kennett and the prospective production of the Balaklava mines at Coran, have stirred up some of the farmers. There are many grangers who are unable to see any good in a mining company, even though a forty-acre tract may be a $10,000 protective fund is to be raised and experts retained to investigate the conditions and fix the blame for any damage that may develop. The Farmers' Protective Association recently held a meeting at Anderson to discuss the mine question, but that most of the farmers are content with present conditions was evidenced by the slim attendance. The association comprises 299 members, but only a few could be induced to attend.

OIL INDICATIONS.
Oil indications in the vicinity of Thermalito, near Oroville, continue to claim much interest. Seepage of petroleum is occurring more and more, and J. C. McKiernan, J. E. Overholser and other orchardists report destruction of trees, gardens and shrubbery from the oil. The seepage has been particularly heavy during the past six weeks and is growing in volume. A surface examination was recently made by experts familiar with oil conditions in the southern districts, and indications were said to favor the existence of a large oil pool at considerable depth. San Francisco and Fresno people have bonded large tracts of territory in the vicinity of the seepage, and drilling will be started in the near future. Parties conversant with oil indications in the Midway, Kern River and other fields have recently visited the district and state the land is the most promising from possible oil standpoint they know of in the Sacramento Valley. On the McKiernan place oil is reported to be issuing from a score of crevices.

WILLOW CREEK, Via Tonopah (Nev.) Aug. 6.—Q: Am sending you me in "In the Earth" what the green is that the gold seems to be in No. 17. Does the black place, No. 2, carry tellurium?
A: The greenish matter in the thumb-specimen carries native gold plentifully, and the greenish color, mixed with small blue matter, is a result of traces of fluorine with dumortierite, both present. The sample is too minute to test further for nickel. In the mass we find traces of aluminum, in the order of the National mine, Nevada. The velvet-black sample contains no tellurium. In this sample, present with the quartz, we find: hematite, magnetite, pallomelane and titanite-iron.

Tetrahedrite.
VICTORVILLE, Aug. 8.—Q: I am sending you today a sample of mineral which I would like to know what it contains. I am a regular subscriber of your valuable paper. The sample comes from the San Bernardino Mountains south of Victorville.
A: While the sample is tetrahedrite of mineralogy it is not the valuable variety "gray-copper" of the mining boys in the hills. It is the common every day Fahlerz, carrying traces of vanadium, iron and arsenic, and each of them as sulphides. The tetrahedrite is contained in the mass, and the small-blue is occasionally dumortierite (silicate of aluminum).

Many Things.
CORONA, Aug. 9.—Q: Will thank you very much if you will enlighten me somewhat on samples enclosed.
A: It is a mixture of lime carbonate, barium sulphate, chlorite (greenish matter), arcanite pyrite and apophyllite.

GOLDFIELD VEIN WILL BE TAPPED.

Big Vein of Low-Grade Ore Has Been Uncovered.

Atlanta Mines Company to Continue Development.

Merger Concern to Explore in Other Directions.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]
GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Sept. 5.—The most significant statement that has been made recently regarding the occurrence of ore in any of the non-producing properties of the Goldfield district was contained in the final report of operations of the Consolidated Mines Company for the month of July, and has just been confirmed in an interview by Albert Burch, general manager of the Consolidated, and one of the most widely-known mining engineers in the whole country. Mr. Burch's report says that the copper-bearing vein was cut on the 1400-foot level, at a point near the boundary line of the Merger Mines Company's property.

This is the big vein from which the Consolidated has been extracting a large quantity of shipping ore on the level a short distance from the yellow-copper vein, known as the No. 1, on the 1400-foot level, was driven to the vein but penetrated it within a few feet of the 1750-foot level, where the Atlanta Mines Company, thus demonstrating its dip and continuity at this depth. In order to develop the vein on this level, the Merger company has been driven to the boundary, where drifts may be driven in both directions, as the near proximity to the Merger addition would not justify driving from this point.

ORE IS LOW-GRADE.
The ore exposed here was lower in grade than above and was not of commercial quality, the chief metal content being copper. It shows conclusively, however, that the ore extends into Merger ground and opens up important possibilities for picking up the pay ore in the latter company's territory, both above and below and on this level. According to the plans of the Merger company the present work of driving the cross-cut to the Atlanta line will be completed before any other work is undertaken. Progress in this work has been slow of late owing to the unstable character of the ground through which the cross-cut has been driven, and the difficulty of holding the ground by timbering.

With the completion of the cross-cut on the 1750-foot level, where the Atlanta Mines Company will take up the further development of its property, it is understood that the Merger company will proceed to explore its ground in other directions and to prospect for the extension of the main Consolidated vein, but this will, it is believed, take the work in a direction from the shaft opposite to that followed in driving to the Atlanta. The same vein has been opened in Merger ground, on the 1320-foot level, by the cross-cut that was driven to afford air connection with the Grizzly Bear workings of the Consolidated, and some seams of good ore were reported at the time to have been found in the performance of this work, but no appreciable amount of development was done here.

VEIN TO BE CUT.
How far the Merger company will have to drive to cut this vein on the 1750-foot level is problematical. Nearly all the work on the deep levels has been in the shaft. The fact that the ore is shown to enter the territory of the Merger Mines Company is of vital importance to the camp, and future operations of the company will be watched with intense interest. The Merger company is practically a Los Angeles concern, the W. A. and J. Ross Clark interests dominating the company, and C. O. Whittemore being president of the corporation. The Merger's big shaft is the deepest of any in the district, and the fact of an ore showing, the very kind that W. A. Clark predicted years ago, would be found here, is a source of great gratification to the men at the head of the company.

Inquiries that have been made on a number of occasions indicate that the public does not fully understand the status of various mining companies operating in the Goldfield district which have been reorganized, on the assembly stock plan, or otherwise. In cases where the concerns have undergone reorganization it has been necessary to discontinue the old companies, to comply with legal conditions and to effect the transfer of the properties to the new companies. In most instances the old companies have been indebted for considerable sums of money to banks or to majority stockholders, who have advanced the funds for the reorganization of the annual work necessary to maintain title or for other purposes. The action taken in reorganizing the companies has usually been to foreclose on the properties and to transfer such properties to the newly-incorporated companies.

MAY CHANGE STOCK.
This action does not invalidate any holdings in the old companies, as the stockholders have invariably been given an opportunity to exchange their stock in the old for that in the new, in some instances with the payment of an assessment, which has been the only means offered of realizing money with which to continue the development of the properties.

Silicates.
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Q: Would very much appreciate your opinion of samples marked 1, 2 and 3 taken from a deposit in Death Valley. What are they, and are they of any commercial value?
A: Whittish sample (No. 1) is 66 per cent. silica, with traces of lime carbonate, potash and soda. Nos. 2 and 3 are mixed pumices with trachyte, the former containing the mineral of the variety that occurs plentifully near Cedar City, Utah. Values of material, represented by the samples, are nominal only.

"GOING AHEAD"

We keep quietly forging ahead, making progress every day, every week and every month. Our endeavor has been to do everything we undertake a little better than it has been done before; to set a standard of quality in the houses we build and in the conduct of our business. To obtain a solid foundation for handsome profits in the future in every operation and to make a modest profit while we are doing it.

In San Diego and in Los Angeles we have established a reputation for conservatism and substantial success that has attracted the attention of the shrewdest investors and business men. Our 7300 acres in the Coachella Valley is looked upon as one of the most valuable holdings of its kind in Southern California.

What we have already accomplished stands the closest scrutiny. Our plans for the future meet with the earnest approval of careful stockholders. You will find this Company one to tie to and to follow; a money maker and worthy of your confidence. Our methods are simple, on well-recognized and secure business principles and without any unusual features. A little money put by each month in these shares receives a full return now in quarterly dividends and in the years to come should show a better profit than any other form of investment.

The noted Surgeon May Chas. Osler has written a book on "The Chloroform" (National Magazine). A few lines of the startling statement of the author are given below. Los Angeles Sunday Times. FREE WORKERS' FIGHT Our Unceasing Fight for Industrial Liberty.

INTERFERENCE WITH RAILROADS. A NOTABLE DECISION AGAINST STRIKES.

JUDGE W. W. THORNTON of the Marion Circuit Court of Indiana has decided that a strike for the purpose of compelling an employer to establish a closed shop is unlawful. The decision was made upon this single issue. The court held that a closed-shop agreement, stipulating the employment of union men only, discriminates against all other classes of citizens merely because of their social affiliations and tends towards a monopoly of labor by restricting free competition.

The Keylock Lock Company of Indianapolis is and always has been an open shop. It operated on the usual schedule of working hours and paid the union scale of wages and more—not by agreement, but voluntarily and by custom.

There are 1150 molders and coremakers employed in the open-shop foundries of Indianapolis, and about two hundred and fifty employed in the union shops. The Keylock Lock Company discharged a union man for insubordination and restriction of output. The union men in this case were in the majority in the ratio of 17 to 1. But the discharge of one of these three was made the excuse and the opportunity for local union No. 24 to address the foreman of the Keylock Lock Company as follows:

"I am instructed to write you in regard to the conditions that are in the shop where you are foreman, Mr. Cutler, you have been discriminating against our men for a long time. I am requesting you to let them know that you will either have to run a union shop or a scab shop. If the three men that are not in the organization do not come into the union at the end of two weeks, your shop will be struck."

The Keylock Lock Company refused to order the three men to join the union or to discharge them for not doing so. Whereupon the Molders' Union ordered out its seventeen members who were working for the Keylock Lock Company. With the help of the Employees' Association of Indianapolis other men were employed in their places and the strike began. Picket lines were thrown out. Singing, interference and intimidation were employed by the strikers, and the disorders culminated in a riot at quitting time on the evening of April 17, 1913, when a mob of thirty strikers and other union members, divided into two squads, intercepted the non-union men as they left the works.

Anticipating trouble of this nature, the company had provided their men with sticks with which to defend themselves. The riot which occurred a policeman was wounded by a shot fired by one of the paid professional pickets. The policeman returned the fire and wounded his assailant. The trial of the policeman resulted in his acquittal of the ground of self-defense.

The Keylock Lock Company then began suit against the members of the Iron Molders' Union for an injunction and $10,000 damages, on the grounds that the closed shop is illegal and the purpose of the strike was therefore unlawful.

In deciding the case Judge Thornton awarded the Keylock Lock Company $4000 damages against the striking molders, with costs, and he issued an injunction prohibiting "threats, intimidation, force or violence," and restrained the defendants from picketing in any manner, directly or indirectly, by any means, peaceful or otherwise, for the purpose of coercing or putting in duress the plaintiffs, to compel the plaintiffs to discharge from their employment all their non-union employees, or to establish a closed shop or union shop.

The court further ordered that there should be no congregating upon, or about the plaintiffs' premises, or the homes or boarding houses, or residences of the plaintiffs' employees, or interference with them in going to and from their work, or going singly or collectively to the homes of plaintiffs' employees, or from intimidating or threatening in any manner the wives and children of the plaintiffs' employees at their homes or elsewhere.

The court, in its decision, said: "An act performed to compel men against their will to join a union or to become union men is illegal. The defendants might make such lawful rules as they pleased for the regulation of their own conduct, but they had no right to force other persons to join them."

The press of Indianapolis, without regard to their political affiliations, endorse the decision of Judge Thornton, and it is the unanimous opinion of the Indiana bar, as being in harmony with the law as settled by the highest courts of other States.

THE STRIKE NEWS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

THE painters strike in New York City is on and more than 20,000 men are "out" and losing about $10,000 a day, except Sundays and holidays. A long list of some of the master painters occurred as soon as the strike started. The strike manager says the men are prepared for a long period of idleness. The strike need not have been begun as all points in dispute had been settled by conference, when the hitch came over the employers' refusal of industrial slavery—the closed shop. Conferences had been in progress for several weeks. The strikers' full demands are a system of accident insurance at expense of the employers, higher and uniform wages, a forty-four-hour working week and the closed shop. This is a heavy bill of demands, but all might have been arranged, except the fatal last item—the closed shop. The minimum wage demanded (why does union labor always "demand" instead of "ask"?) is $35 a week. As the International Painters and Paper Hangers' Union, although affiliated with the United Hebrew Trades, is not connected with the Building Trades Council nor the American Federation of Labor, sympathetic strikes in the other building trades are not looked for.

Syndicalism has received a just, sensible and heavy setback in the utter failure of the call by its advocates of a general strike in Milan, Genoa and other cities of Italy.

As the striking workmen (30,000) of Barcelona, Spain, have refused arbitration by the Institute of Conciliation, the government declines to take responsibility for the serious situation and has taken steps to face any eventualities, even revolution.

In 1912, in the Illinois coal fields, strikes affected a total of 46,500, who lost on an "average" three days' wages each. Labor troubles lost 13 per cent. of the time made. Did it pay?

Hudson River, N. Y., has a strike of its river men. They want more pay and less work. The trouble centers at Rensselaer. The pilots and engineers have joined the strike. Albany Towing Company service is completely tied up and very little is being done by the Cornell company. The electricians of the government's department of works have gone on strike because of the employment of non-union painters at the Admiralty.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS

Wage-earners should steer clear of the money lenders who offer "easy money" without security and no questions asked. They are a resourceful race of men, says the Sun of New York. No sooner are they driven out of one position than they entrench themselves in another and challenge the law to come and do its worst.

The latest of the shifts to which these ingenious gentry have resorted is just now occupying the attention of the courts in the East. The same practice will soon be in Los Angeles, if indeed it is not there already. The illegality of it has yet to be determined, but concerning its immorality there can hardly be two opinions.

A benevolent gentleman, trading under a pseudonym, advances on default of any of the payments on the security of stocks and bonds. When he makes the obvious return that, if he possessed such collateral, he would have long since sold it, the borrower becomes more benevolent than ever. That it appears, is a little matter that can be easily arranged.

By the good fortune of the borrower, the stock is sold at a profit, and the borrower is another philanthropist whose business it is to supply honest wage-earners with stock certificates on their note of hand.

If he is a guileless person or one uncommonly hard pressed for ready cash, he will be exactly what the corner receives some stock certificates and in return for them presents to philanthropist No. 2 his note for almost the market value of the stock, together with a power of attorney to draw on his wages (or salary, as the case may be) should he be unable to do so.

MAYOR TIRED OF VIOLENCE.

CINCINNATI OFFICIALS STRAIGHTEN UP TO UNIONS.

While strikers they may use the streets to walk or ride on, but not for congregating, and it is desirable that a man cannot conduct his business as he sees fit.

The long-drawn-out teamsters' strike at Cincinnati has obtained no sympathy from the Mayor of that city. He and the police officials are there to enforce the law and he proposes to do it. A recent conference between labor union officials and the Mayor is reported by the Cincinnati "Enquirer."

"Without any attempt to mince his words, and delivering his remarks straight from the shoulder, Mayor Hunt yesterday told a committee of labor leaders just where the administration stands in regard to the teamsters' strike and the industrial troubles that are afflicting Cincinnati at the present time. This committee, consisting of Frank Emwalle, Secretary of the Central Labor Council; Henry Lucas, president of the Teamsters' Union, and Joseph Mayring, business agent of the Harbort Union, was appointed at a meeting of the Central Labor Council Tuesday evening to call on the Mayor and protest against the alleged actions of the police in driving strikers off certain streets."

"Emwalle, who acted as spokesman of the delegation, began by saying he did not think the police had any legal right to prevent the union men from using Second street."

"No, they haven't," replied the Mayor. "Second street, as well as all the other thoroughfares of Cincinnati, is for the public use; to walk or ride on as they see fit. I know of no order issued by the Safety Director or Chief of Police that would prevent this, but they may have refused to countenance the congregating of large bodies of strikers along that street in order to prevent disorder."

"We don't think it is fair to keep the strikers off Second street," said Emwalle.

"Tired of violence," broke in the Mayor with emphasis. "I am tired of all this violence in the city. The administration intends to use every means within its power to put a stop to it. Anyone who tries to interfere with us in this respect is not doing his duty as a citizen. We will preserve order in Cincinnati no matter what it costs to do so—and it will be done regardless of votes. It is our duty to preserve the peace and we intend to do it no matter whether it hurts the union or the non-union element. McArthur cannot scare me with his remarks about votes. If he wants to throw his influence to the Republican ticket let him do so, but while I remain Mayor of this city I am going to see that the law is obeyed no matter what it costs. My business is to enforce the law and preserve order. I won't turn my hand over to get any votes from anybody. I am going to do my duty, even if it means that I will be snowed under at the next election."

"I respect the attitude and feeling of you gentlemen who are here today, but I am not taking sides one way or the other. My oath of office does not permit me to take sides. The law must be enforced regardless of whom it hits."

"President Lucas suggested to the Mayor that an effort be made to bring the team owners and the union together for a conference. The Mayor said it was no use, the team owners declared positively they would not treat with the union. He had investigated and knew this to be true. He further said it was not the duty of the Mayor to settle strikes, but while I see that law and order are observed."

"In some cases the Mayor may offer his services as mediator," he said, "but in the present case, when one side absolutely refuses to meet the other, there is no way in which we can force them to do so."

"The congregation again reverted to forbidding the congregation of strikers on Second street, and Police Chief Copeland said he had never issued an order to keep the union men off the thoroughfare, but that the law plainly forbids any gatherings on any street that would interfere with traffic or breed disorder."

"In ordinary times," the Chief continued, "it is not necessary to force three or four citizens who happen to be talking together to move on, but these are not ordinary times. The gatherings of union men at certain points is liable to lead to trouble and the police cannot afford to take any chances."

"AS TO CARRYING GUNS."

"How about the non-union drivers being allowed to carry guns?" was asked.

"Self-protection," replied the Chief. "A few years ago, during a car strike, whenever a non-union man was seen to have a gun the union pickets would point him out and the police would take the gun away. Then as soon as the police were a block away the strikers would jump on the non-union man and beat him half to death."

"Supposing conditions were reversed, said the Mayor, 'and non-union men were trying to prevent union men from driving cars, don't you think the latter should be allowed to protect themselves?'"

"The union men reluctantly admitted they should."

"Following the meeting Mayor Hunt said: 'It seems a damnable outrage to me that a man cannot conduct his own business as he sees fit in a great American city like Cincinnati without being interfered with, and that a man has not the right to work how and for whom he desires without being intimidated or snugged by others who do not agree with him.'"

FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

John L. Kelly, Mayor of San Francisco, has adopted a platform for City Campaign.

(By A. P. Hunt was to the Mayor.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Municipal ownership has been made part of the union labor party's platform on which the candidates whose names it has confirmed, will run for city offices in the next election to be held in November.

Public favoring annexation of contiguous territory, co-operation with the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, constructive assistance to existing districts, extension of parks and playgrounds and home industry were also adopted.

The New York rag pickers' strike of 2000 men and women is over. Practically nothing was gained by the strike. Almost all strikes are a failure.

Reports On Wages.

employee, if he receives good wages and is paid in cash regularly."

Thus concludes L. P. Hollis, superintendent of the social work of the Parker Cotton Mills, North Carolina, in an interview with a newspaper man of Columbia.

Leading the fight for a self-respecting citizenship among the army of employees of the Parker Mills, Mr. Hollis is doing a great work. Not to the mill men alone will the benefits of his activities accrue. The bread cast upon the waters will in the end assure to the Parker Mills a sane, healthy, intelligent corps of workers and to the State good citizens.

But of all the activities that have engaged the attention of Mr. Hollis, that of the establishment of the co-operative store is the most far-reaching. It is to this that he refers in the opening lines of this editorial. Mr. Hollis points out the fact that the old company stores were, most of them, failures either because of mismanagement or unsound credit.

To the worker this has been a detrimental as to the mill owners. The man who can thrust his hand into the pockets of his trousers and find a few cents at the end of a week's wage has an advantage over the other whose pay is delivered in goods at the company's store that is something more than psychological. It goes deep down to the root of self-respect and touches the inherent right of man to his own earnings and the privilege of selecting the place and the means for the expenditure of these earnings.

Worldwide Rise in Food Prices

The cost of living among the working classes of the world is the subject of a recent British Board of Trade report of 400 pages. A comparison of the statistics for 1918 and 1917 shows generally that while rents have changed very little on the average during the seven years, the retail prices of the commodities consumed by workers and their families have increased materially, though, and this is news; they are still lower than they were a generation ago. Sir R. Llewellyn Smith, in his prefatory note, computes the average increase in workmen's rent, food, fuel and clothing, taken together during this period, at about 10 per cent.

Using the figures 100 in 1910 as the unit, a world comparison of 1918 with 1911 follows:

	1910	1918
United Kingdom	100	110
Belgium	100	120
France	100	115
Germany	100	110
Italy	100	105
United States	100	102
Japan	100	100
Australia	100	100
New Zealand	100	100

F. H. McLeod of the British Department of Labor Statistics says: "It is found that the cost of living, as represented by rents (including rates) and the retail prices of the selected articles of food and coal, was between 11 and 15 per cent. higher in London than in the other eighty-seven towns, taken as a whole. London is followed in this respect by the Scottish towns, and at the other end of the scale are the towns in the Midlands in which both rents and prices were at a low average. Crowded New-castle-on-Tyne, Plymouth and Devonport, Sheerness and Swansea are the towns in England and Wales for which the combined figures most nearly approached those for London, while the towns in which the cost of living was lowest are Wolverhampton, Walsall and Macclesfield. London being taken as 100, the extreme range of index numbers for rents and prices combined in other towns was from 81 to 97."

Railroad Interference.

cial positions who retained their memberships in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; and Mr. Stone said in his letter that "members holding official positions cannot do the work or take the place of strikers without violating the laws of the organization." In other words, he sought to give orders to officers of the roads which they could not obey without disobeying the orders of higher officials of the roads. These incidents illustrate the ever-increasing arrogance of some of the unions and their leaders. If the officials of railways cannot secure the implicit obedience of employees to their orders how can they be held responsible by the public for the results of their railway operation?

It is to be hoped that the managers of the railways will meet squarely the issue adopted by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; and that every employee who, in accordance with these resolutions, refuses to play the orders of any of his officers, will be summarily and finally discharged from the service. The right of officers to have their orders obeyed should be maintained even though in order to do so it is necessary to go through a bad strike. The lack of proper discipline is the greatest curse of railway operation in America. It is the main cause of railway accidents; it is the main cause of the preventable wastes in railway operation; and when the brotherhoods, instead of co-operating to improve the conditions, assume openly an attitude that is adapted to aggravate them, they lose their claims to public confidence and respect. Far more it is not without significance that it is the organization which has been promoting full crew legislation in the pretended interest of safe operation that now adopts resolutions which are adapted to further impair the discipline that is most essential to safe operation.

L.W.W. DISTURBERS.

Wherever They Take Part in Organized Labor's Affairs, Bloodshed Results and Workers Become Idle. [Louisville Herald.] Pick up almost any daily newspaper in almost any city of the United States and you will find under first page headlines the story of a riot somewhere in which the Industrial Workers of the World are involved.

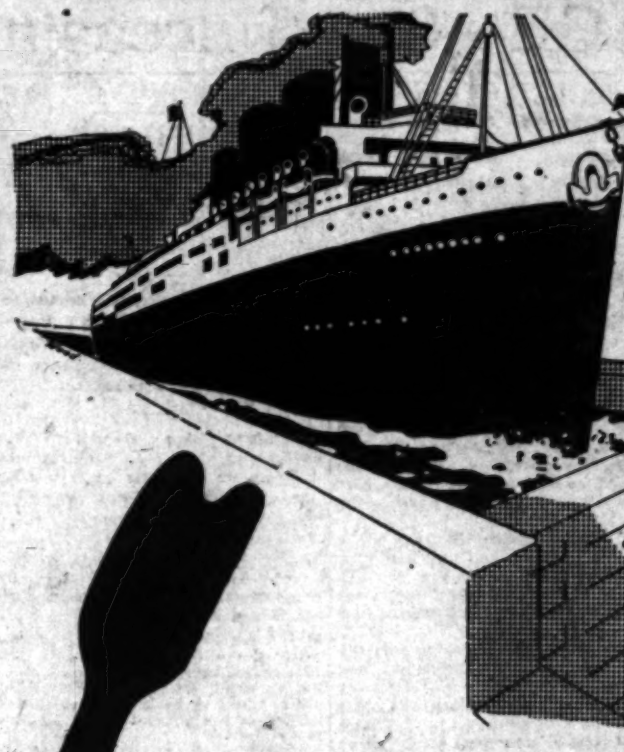

No section of country seems to be immune from this pestiferous body. Seattle, Wheatland, Cal.; Paterson, N. J.; Duluth, Salt Lake City, Lawrence, Mass., and Minot, S. D., are a few of the places just now prominently set out on the L.W.W. map.

Wherever these disturbers are permitted to take part in the affairs of organized labor, bloodshed results. Just recall a moment over what happened in Paterson. And after all, what did the labor cause profit by such radical methods?

Still fresh in the public mind is the story of how half a dozen or more men were killed in a California hopfields riot.

And only a little while ago the whole city of Seattle was in turmoil over an L.W.W. outbreak.

Peaceful dock workers at Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., were jogging merrily along until they listened to an L.W.W. agitator who induced them to quit work. Now the jobs they left have been filled and the deluded strikers are out of employment—and that, too, after their employers had at one time agreed to make all the concessions demanded.

LIGHTS GLOW IN OCEAN WAVES.

Cole Sent Dashing Into Brine
but Delco Burns On.

Glimmer from Wave-Washed
Car Startles Hotel Guests.

C. Fred Grundy Ready to Back This Occurrence.

With its lights glaring from the waves of the sea, the Delco car, which was sent dashing into the water by a wave, attracted considerable attention Wednesday night. The car had been driven into the water by H. J. Pink, who, while traveling at sixty miles an hour along the beach, almost collided with the heavy rocks that bar the passage. Pink, who is a racing driver of note, tried to make a fast run on the beach and succeeded as far as a point along the shore at Del Rey. While sending the Cole to a terrific pace, huge rocks loomed suddenly in his path and he was forced to avoid a collision, to drive into the ocean. Straight at the waves went Pink with his car well in hand but the terrific speed of the motor sent the machine far out in the breakers, and Pink, to avoid being drowned, jumped into the water and swam to shore. The car was tossed around on the beach and was abandoned for the night. The lights were not lit. About 8 o'clock that night a group of large hotel guests were sitting in the waves and at once gave the alarm. It might be a sea serpent or some other monster of the deep. They could not imagine what it was. The two great eyes were there and they would investigate. The delegation started shoreward. Imagine the surprise of the throng when an automobile was discovered with headlights aglow in the waters of the Pacific. The car was too far out in the breakers to be reached and it was necessary to leave the machine to the mercy of the waves. The lights burned for seven hours and the illumination was novel in the darkness.

LIGHTING SYSTEM.
The Cole is equipped with the Delco self-starting and lighting system. C. Fred Grundy declares it is possible for the lights to burn a long time even after the water has splashed all over the machine. The installation of the electric system is in brass conduit, the end of each being equipped with a rubber gasket. Water would eventually get to the system, but it would require some time before it would short-circuit.

That was a peculiar thing," said C. Fred Grundy of the Grundy Motor Sales Company, agents for the Cole. "The lights burned for hours and the machine was under water for seven hours. We found and in the morning after we have driven out the engine and the machine. It was a funny proposition, but we have hundreds of operators to vouch for the truth of the story that the Delco system was not short-circuited."

SAVAGE TIRES
IN CORONA RACE.

FIAT TEAM SHOD WITH HORSE

Totipot to Fight for Handsome Trophy on the Castles Which Have Recently Been Placed on the Market—Big Contest Gives Excellent Chance to Judge Stability.

The three Fiat cars entered in the Corona race will be equipped with horse tires, which will make the race very much California, entries. They discovered by a California man, driven by a California boy and equipped with California-made tires. Totipot decided upon Savage tires only after a most thorough test. He probably subjected the tires to the hardest test it was possible to give them. With his big 120-horse-power Fiat he drove fifteen laps on the Corona course with the car wide open every foot of the way. One of his objects was to determine what speed could be made on the new course, and the other was to demonstrate to himself that the Savage tires were strong enough to withstand the terrific strain of a hard road battle. Totipot averaged ninety miles an hour for the fifteen laps, the fastest time ever made for that distance, even in practice. News of this wonderful run has already attracted the attention of the motor world, to the fact that world records will be broken at Corona. One lap was made at the phenomenal average of 143 miles an hour.

"I attribute my wonderful average," said Totipot, "to the service of this California-made tire. I will acknowledge that I thought I could tear the tires to pieces, or at least burn them up at such speed, but when the fifteen laps were completed I really believe the people who gathered around my car devoted as much time to examining the tires as they did to me. I decided then to use Savage tires, and if they do half as good in the race as they did in this test, I will be thoroughly satisfied."

KRIT ENTHUSIASTS
CHANGE CAMP NAME.

A large party of local motorists have been spending their vacations at Thompson's Pines and have sprung something new by christening the east end of the camp "Kamp Krit" because of the large number of drivers of this little car who are spending their vacations there. Among those at present at the camp are Law A. Darling, Dr. Grundy and family of Los Angeles, Miss Service Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Hawley of Arlington and Dr. Hadden.

The motorists report that the camp is an ideal place for a vacation, and that owing to the rain which has just been sufficient to lay the dust the roads to Thompson's Pines, Squirrel Tan and Pine Crest are in the best of condition, and no machine has had any trouble in making the trip.

Ralph de Palma and S. C. Geary, Secretary of the Automobile Club of Southern California. This was snapped after Miss Geary had driven the Mercer two fast laps around the Corona course.

BENTEL TELLS WHY HE HAS FAITH IN THE MOTOR CAR.

"The motor car is a blessing. If it were not for the motor car many professional men would sink into oblivion, but by attacking the modern vehicle they try to keep themselves in the limelight and bolster up their importance," says George Bentel, head of the Simplex-Mercer Pacific Coast agency. "A medical highbrow in Stockholm recently delivered himself of a dissertation on what he termed 'mobility,' claiming that it is the latest disease known among the medical practitioners of the Slough City. He claims that the best way to contract this latest disease is to stand behind a whirling automobile and breathe in the dust it kicks up."

Technical Committee.
A.A.A. MEN COMPLETE
WORK FOR CORONA RACE.

CLARENCE SMITH, chairman of the A.A.A. Technical Committee, and W. E. Bush, the other member of the committee, have practically finished their work preliminary to the big race. "What remains to be done will be finished today, and it will be definitely announced Monday morning what cars are eligible to start at Corona. "We have examined and measured the cars entered," said Smith, "and each has been properly stamped. Our work consisted of measuring the bore and stroke of each car entered to determine the cylinder displacement. The stamp of the A.A.A. Technical Committee was then placed upon the cylinders, crank shaft and pistons. "The winning car will come under our control immediately after the race and will remain in our hands until another examination has been made. Mr. Bush examined and measured the cars in case of an emergency."

PEERLESS MAN RETURNS, PLEASED WITH ARIZONA.

CLARENCE SMITH returned from a trip to Arizona last week. The Peerless and Ohio Electric agent was pleased with conditions as he found them there, and states that everything in an automobile way is going ahead throughout that State. "The people there are wide awake as to the needs of good roads, and everywhere I was told that work is under way to give the State a system of high-grade highways in all directions. "While in Phoenix I met R. K. Morse, who is driving from Philadelphia to San Diego in a Peerless touring car. In the party are Mrs. Morse, their son of 14 and a driver. They took the southern route in order to reach San Diego as soon as possible. A daughter there is to be married Tuesday. They had been on the road only eighteen days and should be in San Diego by this time. "They were very fortunate in missing the extremely hot weather in Arizona, and when I saw them they had no complaint of the desert heat. Of course they had a long stretch of hot sand before them. "They plan on remaining in San Diego until the first of October, and then drive home by way of San Francisco, Reno and Salt Lake. They expect to reach Philadelphia in the fall and will have covered over 5000 miles and a long stretch of hot sand before them. "The people in Arizona are as interested as ever in the Phoenix race, and I was asked many times in Phoenix if the Howdy Band would be on hand to keep the natives awake at night."

THORNG DESIRES
LITTLE MAXWELL.

Never says Harry A. Lord, of the Lord Motor Car Company, since the strenuous and palmy days in the fall of 1909, when closed up contracts and took cash deposits in two weeks over 400 "standard built" EMF cars sold "right unseen" has there been such activity, such keen interest and enthusiasm over a new arrival in the automobile world as has been manifested by the motoring public every hour of the day since the new Maxwell "28" was rolled off the boat at San Pedro Sunday morning, one week ago. Early in the week we had to lay down a rule "demonstrations limited to twenty minutes." But even with this precaution, many have been unable to get a look at the car the past week. We have more cars on the road and expect to ease up the situation with additional demonstrations, after a week or so. The public mind of 1913 is a different thing altogether from the public mind we had to deal with in 1909, in that much that was considered "technical knowledge" and confined to the ranks of mechanics and seasoned motorists in those days, is now a matter of general and well assimilated knowledge on the part of the thousands who are contemplating the purchase of their first car. The average "prospector" of today, instead of being dazzled and bewildered by a fast sprint on level roads, is more apt to say, as soon as he gets seated in the car, "Never mind the long spin, lad, let me see how she walks over West Sixth street hill with a load."

The "28" has played to a packed house every day the past week and the fact that she will "walk up Sixth on the high" at twenty-five miles an hour with a load, never fails to "make 'em wrinkle up" at the finish and render the popular verdict "She's a Bear."

HERDS CATLE IN NEW REGAL.

News has been received at the Regal Motor Car factory, Detroit, of an interesting trip made recently by Fred Renstrom of the F. O. Renstrom Company, Regal distributors for the State of California. Mr. Renstrom writes as follows:

"I was in Trinity county and had instructions from the house to go to Weaverville and look up a prospective dealer there. He told me of a Regal car that a stock buyer was using and stated that the work this stockman was getting out of his car was wonderful. I had a chance to go out with the stockman the next day, and what that Regal car did was enough to make me sit up and take notice. "We started out about 8 o'clock in the morning and kept the roads until we had driven about fifteen miles when he spied a bunch of cattle about a mile off the road. Instead of walking across the rough plains he drove the Regal car, and made his count of heads of stock and what other observation he wished, and we were on again, back over the fields or plains to the road, and then on to another drove of cattle. The roads up that way are in fearful condition, dusty and rough, but the plains are worse, and the Regal car took us just as nicely over the fields as though we had been on a smooth roadway. The cattlemen said his tires wear out quicker than if he held to the road, day all the time, but he can cover three times as much ground. As he used to cover with a pony, and the expense is not as great."

Detroit is to have, but one automobile race this season, and that is scheduled for September 20 and 21, during the Michigan State Fair.

A Revelation In Modern Motor Car Construction

Every one who rides in the new Cadillac recognizes immediately that its well-known smoothness has been supplemented by an entirely new riding quality. This is demonstrated at once, even to the inexperienced motorist. Going even at high speed, the passengers discover that motoring in this new Cadillac has lost its sense of strain. Unless the eye is on the speedometer, one is apt to guess that the car is going about half its actual rate of travel. Mentally and physically, driver and passengers unconsciously relax, reveling in the delight of a new and luxurious sensation, oblivious to the almost watch-like mechanism. The new two-speed rear axle has been accepted by the world as the most progressive step of the year in modern motor car construction. It means additional luxury, economy and efficiency. You must see this car and ride in it to appreciate the wonders of modern motor car building.

TT DRIVES TO OAK WYLD.

He had not traversed the road more than a mile when he encountered the first obstacle, a rock in the middle of the road, which the axle of the automobile would not clear. He had to stop but fortunately set to work to push up dirt and stones with his hands to help the wheels up and the car over the bump. In the laborious fashion he got several feet further on when he encountered another obstacle, which was the same as the first, and he was forced to stop.

HE GOT THERE.

However, the fact that he should have got to the end of his undertaking, the trip down out of the mountains was no less difficult, even though there was nothing for it but to get out of the mud, and so the obstacles were eliminated.

This road is traversed by a dirt stage drawn by two, and it is so rough that one can hardly see one's feet. Several persons have been given up almost as soon as they started.

and follows the Applegate river to the prettiest canyon in San Francisco and E. C. O.

Grant's Pass, one will find a road through Cow Creek Canyon, which has been bad, but has been made in fine condition. The builders have made the road by constructing the road too high in wet weather makes it impossible, as it is of red clay, and it is not firm.

Coronado through Roseburg, Dunn and Cottage Grove, are the worst road to be found between San Francisco and Vancouver. They are a lot of road work in that section, the building heavy, and, after the time-honored method of building and filling in, it is the traffic to roll down. One should leave the Pacific coast at Salem and go west to Eugene, Dunkirk, and then over the Tierras and to Portland.

DAY MORNING.

OWE MUCH TO AUTO CLUB.

Secretary Geary Lauded for Good Roads Campaign.

State of Southland Pleasure to Tour Through.

Western Routes Are Not So Well Posted as Ours.

Whenever I tour through Southern California I make a real-estate tour and the Automobile Club of Southern California for its good roads campaign so well organized by the secretary, E. C. Geary.

The best posted roads of Northern California are not always the best to follow in touring," said L. A. Lester, factory western representative, who is in Los Angeles on a tour duty. "Your roads down here are easy to follow.

The recent route, to Vancouver, B. C., from San Francisco followed the well-trunk by way of Sacramento, Red Bluff, Redding to Astoria. At the latter point we were met in a cloudburst and had to turn back for some time.

On account of the rain and wash-out a lot of us had to make a detour of 100 miles in the mountains, up and slide, with practically no road, as up to this time we had no road.

During the tour we saw the mountains over the road and the road was designated as part of the highway. This is the first part of the country we saw, as the highway was called the "rough road," because it was a swamp, for the road was in the mud. It took us four days to make fifty-one miles.

The road was so bad that we had to make a detour of 100 miles in the mountains, up and slide, with practically no road, as up to this time we had no road.

After leaving Medford the road turned off of the Pacific coast through Jacksonville, Jacksonville hills, by way of Jacksonville to San Francisco. Along THE RIVERS.

and follows the Applegate river to the prettiest canyon in San Francisco and E. C. O.

Grant's Pass, one will find a road through Cow Creek Canyon, which has been bad, but has been made in fine condition. The builders have made the road by constructing the road too high in wet weather makes it impossible, as it is of red clay, and it is not firm.

Coronado through Roseburg, Dunn and Cottage Grove, are the worst road to be found between San Francisco and Vancouver. They are a lot of road work in that section, the building heavy, and, after the time-honored method of building and filling in, it is the traffic to roll down. One should leave the Pacific coast at Salem and go west to Eugene, Dunkirk, and then over the Tierras and to Portland.

First motor stage to enter the Sequoia National Park.

FIRST AUTOMOBILE ENTERS SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK.

ITALIA, Sept. 1.—Over a winding road through what many enthusiasts declare to be the most scenic territory in the State, a Federal motor stage truck last week entered the Sequoia National Park and went to the center of Giant Forest, which is the largest grove of giant redwoods in the world.

It was the first motor stage to ever enter the park, and the distance from Lemon Cove, in Tulare county, to the heart of the forest is 12 miles. It is this road that Tulare county citizens propose to convert into an asphalt thoroughfare to connect the Sequoia National Park with the State highway.

A concession has been granted to the Lonsdale of Lemon Cove, the owners of the motor stage, to operate a regular stage service between Lemon Cove and the park. The stage will seat eleven passengers comfortably but twenty were taken along on the initial trip.

The journey was made in seven and a half hours. It previously took three days to make the same trip, including the stops at night.

Introduction of the medium-priced American car is largely responsible for rapid strides made in the sales of motor vehicles in Valencia, Spain, according to Claude I. Dawson, United States Consul at that city.

The fellow who wanted to exchange a blue-ribbon winner at the dog show for an automobile recently, has a counterpart in another citizen of New York, who inserted the following advertisement in an evening paper: "Would exchange my five-passenger touring car for a good phonograph with a set of operatic records."

MEXICAN'S TIRES SAVE LIFE.

One of the latest bits of news from Mexico reveals the fact that Gen. Lucio Blanco, commanding the Constitutional forces, undoubtedly owes his life to the fact that his tires were able to withstand the bullets from the Federal sharpshooters.

It appears that the general was riding in his Firestone-equipped automobile through the thickest of the recent battle at Matamoros, Mex., and after the battle was over noticed that his tires were riddled with bullet holes and jagged scars, one large cut especially showing that it came from a glancing ball fired by a machine gun.

Had one of the tires been punctured and the machine forced to stop, the general might have been killed, and it is due to the durability of the tires that the general is still alive.

Farmers in Southern India need to be educated to the use of simple imported plows before they can appreciate the value of motor-driven plows, in the opinion of Henry D. Baker, United States Consul on special service. He believes, however, that there may in the future be a favorable market for motor-driven plows.

HOW TO KEEP CAR FOREVER.

W. E. BUSH GIVES POINTS ALONG THESE LINES.

Maintenance One of the Important Items in Upkeep of New Model Which Can Be Made to Last a Lifetime. According to This High-Priced Dealer, Who Should Know.

That a good car will last forever is the surprising statement made by W. E. Bush. "A car that is well maintained and a motor whose maintenance can be determined quickly is an essential. There are four factors which determine the cost of maintenance," says Bush.

The first of these is the intrinsic mechanical excellence of design, material and manufacturing methods. The size of this factor depends entirely upon the manufacturer.

The second and third factors are conditions of operation and care in lubrication, cleaning and handling.

"The size of these two factors is entirely in the hands of the owner, though the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company is anxious to contribute all the helpful advice and instruction in regard to operation and care of which it is capable.

"A car that is being constantly run at high speeds over rough roads must wear more than one run over smooth roads at low speeds. The first car will cost more to keep in good running order. The cost of maintaining a car that is not well lubricated, allowed to run covered with mud and grit and driven in a 'slap, dash' brutal manner must be greatly in excess of that of the well-cared-for, well-handled machine.

"Any piece of steel is capable of withstanding but a certain amount of stress before it fails. The better the steel, the more stress will it withstand, but the more work can it perform before failure, but the ultimate destruction of the steel of a pair of shoes.

"Most people realize that such parts of an automobile as bearings, piston rings, cylinders, tires, etc., must wear out, and they make no complaint so long as they last a reasonable time.

"They do not, however, generally realize that the so-called 'non-wearing' parts of a car must wear out, just as certainly as the wearing parts.

"Alteration in direction of stress, vibration, constitutes just as destructive a phenomenon as ordinary friction."

"The fourth factor in the cost of maintenance is the general efficiency of the shop in which repairs are made."

"To reduce this factor to the minimum, commensurate with high-grade workmanship and material, it is necessary that both owner and manufacturer co-operate to the fullest extent possible."

"The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, through a long series of years, has given its best endeavor to assist its agents to so organize their shops that our owners may receive the highest class of mechanical attention at the lowest cost, consistent with quality which it believes to be their right."

"We believe that no Pierce-Arrow car can be as well repaired in any outside shop as in the shops of our agents. We believe that the special training in Pierce-Arrow methods of construction and fitting that has been given the foremen and mechanics in these shops is a guarantee of the very best workmanship in the shortest time and at the lowest figure."

WHAT DESTROYS MODERN ROADS.

Highway Commission Blames Horse-drawn Vehicles.

Heavy Loads on Narrow Tires Ruin Roads.

Waterbound Macadam Is One of Best Materials.

The Massachusetts Highway Commission after a full investigation, recently issued, that the greatest cause of the destruction of modern roads is not the automobile nor the motor truck, but the heavily loaded vehicle drawn by horses. The road commission consists of Col. W. D. Schler, chairman, F. D. Kemp and J. W. Synan.

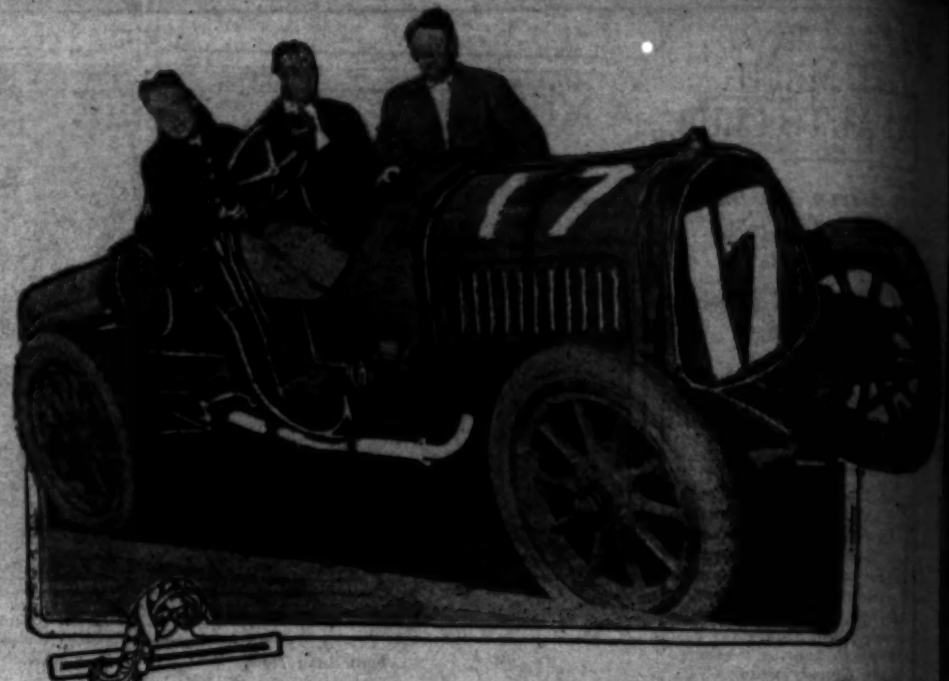

In two instances quoted in the current report, fifty to seventy-five tons of weight on a 3½-inch to 5-inch tire broke up within a month the side of the road on which the loaded teams traveled, while the surface lasted three months on the other side where the teams came back empty. These roads are of macadam treated with heavy asphaltic oil.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.
The traffic study shows that it is not the number of teams, but heavy teams—two or more horses, and heavy loads on narrow tires—that cause the failure.

A good gravel road will wear reasonably well under a daily traffic composed of fifty to seventy-five light teams, twenty-five to thirty loaded teams, and 100 to 150 automobiles. With a larger number of automobiles, the gravel should be oiled.

The oiling presents what is spoken of as a "blanket surface" consisting of heavy asphaltic oil and sand. If the oil is applied hot, the blanket surface will last three to five years, if cold, it must be renewed every year. Oiled gravel will stand fairly well under 75 to 100 light teams, thirty to fifty heavy one-horse vehicles, twenty heavy wagons with two or more horses, and 500 to 700 automobiles daily.

WATERBOUND MACADAM.
Waterbound macadam will stand under a daily traffic of 175 to 200 light teams, 125 to 200 heavy one-horse vehicles, and sixty to eighty, perhaps more, heavy wagons with two or more horses. If even fifty or 100 automobiles per day go over the road at high speed dust layers will be serviceable. With a really good dust-layer the road will stand 200 to 250 automobiles daily.

JOHN WIESE EXPLAINS NON-SKID TIRE DEMAND

THE DEMAND for non-skid tires which is so prevalent among the motorists today is explained by John W. Wiese of the United States Tire Company.

Wiese states that there are many reasons why motorists prefer the non-skid type of tires. In the first place there is the protection against skidding. Also, when the tread of the tire is raised the motorist gets a thicker wearing surface and thus the life of the tire is increased. The manufacturer is able to put much more rubber between the tire carcass and the outside casing than is the case with the ordinary smooth tire and with the raised tread the motorist usually gets more tread miles of service out of his tires before it wears down to the surface. Another advantage, which Wiese is that the non-skid tires reduce the number of bumps and sharp objects entering on the road, that they do not pass to the tube.

As the rainy season approaches demand for the safety of the tread tires increases. Wiese thought there is a firm of large demand for them this summer. In order to meet the demand Wiese has laid in a large stock of tires and will be able to fill all the orders that come in.

WILLIAMS GETS FIRST DEFEAT.

Honolulu Pitcher Had Eight Straight Wins.

Wolves Fail to Get Behind; Knocked Out.

His Record Leads on Coast This Season.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
SACRAMENTO, Sept. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After three months of unadulterated luck, in which good pitching has figured more as a side issue than as the big show, Honolulu Johnny Williams has finally lost a game. The Sacramento Wolves failed to hit behind him today and when he retired in the fifth inning, he left the run on base that put Los Angeles out in front for a lead that they held to the end for a 3 to 2 victory. It was the first defeat that Williams had suffered since June 2, and on that date it was Los Angeles that beat him by a 3 to 1 score.

Since that defeat of June 3, Williams had run up a season pitching record of seven victories without a defeat, and today's defeat was his first setback. Williams' eight straight victory record still stands as the best pitching mark of the league this year, however, and it is not likely to be equalled by any other pitcher for a few weeks to come. The string includes two victories each over Los Angeles, Portland and Venice, and one each over Oakland and San Francisco. Yesterday's game was the second that Los Angeles has won from Williams this year.

A quick glance at the box score, which shows minor errors charged to the Wolves, might lead one to think that the misplays of his teammates were responsible for the overthrow of Williams' pitching record. But such is not the case. Of those nine errors—and they were big, juicy ones—only one figured in the runmaking, and that was the most excusable error of the whole lot. In the sixth inning Pop Young tried to catch Bill Page running into third, but Young's throw hit the runner, the ball glanced off to the left field stand and Page ambled home. That one-run margin gave the Angels their victory, but if the Wolves had been able to hit Jack Ryan in the pinches, three Los Angeles runs would have never been good for a victory.

MAGNET'S HORSE SHOE.
The Angel starts scoring in the first when Magnet lifted a dinky pop fly into safe territory between Young and Lewis for a two-bagger. Magnet's out put Magnet on third, whence he scored on Howard's low drive to center for a single. The Wolves tied it up in their half on a mighty triple to left and again's sacrifice fly to Magnet, whose throw to the plate pulled Arbogast half-way down the third base line.

The Angels looked dangerous in the second and fourth, but fortune favored Williams, and an error and a hit in each of these innings did no damage. But when Ryan opened the fifth with a double down the right field foul line, Capt. Wolverton decided to take no further chances with Williams and his rabbit's foot, and Red Jake Lively was sent into the breach. Magnet's infield out put Ryan on third, and when Metzger dumped a punt to Tennant, Ryan beat the throw to the plate for the second Angel run. But then came the big event of the afternoon. Metzger had not hurried in his progress down the first base line, and Lynn saw a chance to head him off. But Lynn's throw went low to Kentworthy who was covering the bag. As the ball rolled into right field, Metzger continued to second. Shinn retrieved the ball and threw high to Young at second. As the ball rolled into left field, Metzger continued to check his progress at third, and he was thrown out a moment later trying to score on Ellis's fly to Moran in right center, Tennant taking the ball for a neat and speedy relay to Lynn.

In the sixth the Angels put over what proved to be the winning run. Page beat out a slow one to Young and stole second. Krueger rapped a grounder to Young who hit Page with the ball, making a throw to Holman, Page rounding third and making home safely. After allowing only four hits in eight innings, Ryan showed signs of weakness. As the ball rolled into right field, Pop Dillon quickly substituted Roy Crabbe on the mound for the Angel. Tennant greeted Crabbe with a single to right, Shinn scoring from second while Krueger was kicking the ball around in the dust. Moran was safe, when Goodwin booted his grounder, but when Stark, running for Tennant, tried to make third on the play, Page's throw to Metzger beat him out of the running. Page who tossed Moran out at second. Goodwin's relay to first only went about half way up the base line, but Umpire Pyle away from him by Pinney, allowed Dillon's claim of interference, and the play was scored as a double play, ending the game. The score:

REULBACH ALLOWS ONLY TWO HITS TO THE GIANTS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Reulbach, the old Chicago star, pitched a sensational game here for Brooklyn today and Brooklyn's team won the fourth game 3 to 2. Reulbach held the champions to two hits and did not permit a New York batsman to get past first base until the ninth. Mathewson hit his third straight game. After yielding ten hits in the first five innings, he settled down and allowed only one hit in the last four. Score:

J. M. Studebaker, dean of auto manufacturers, at the wheel of the new six-cylinder. This is one of the sensations in the low-priced line and has created much interest in auto circles in this country.

LARGE MACHINERY ORDER GIVEN BY REGAL COMPANY.

ONE of the largest orders for automobile machinery made this year was recently put in by the Regal Automobile Company. These machines are to be used to assure accuracy, correctness and reliability in the construction of Regal cars.

President Haines of the Regal company, in discussing the increase in the plant, said: "Our financial development naturally means an increase in the output of the Regal cars for next year. The new machinery was a logical sequence. We have always prided ourselves that the Regal undercarriage was built of the finest material and by the best experts in the business. We now propose to excel our previous efforts."

"These new machines that we have bought enable us to market our cars for 1914 at the popular Regal price of $1495. These machines save both time and labor. One of the machines will bore all four cylinders of the engine at one and the same time. There are all kinds of other machines with attachments which will insure perfect alignment, etc."

The remainder of the new equipment of the company includes batteries of milling machines, radial and upright drills, turret lathes, engine lathes, cylinder grinders and many other kinds of improved machinery.

back the line like a switch engine, behind the line. Finch not only can but has become justly noted for his handling of the forward pass. He throws a football as anybody else would throw a baseball and, take it from me, it is dangerous for the other fellow.

Ben Brownell, former Earlham college back and all-Indiana half, is a very welcome addition to the squad and should be seen in action this season. His long suit is his million-dollar toe, and if he can punt up to his past record this season he will be a wonderful aid to the team.

Another new one who side fair to start something in Mason Haven from Brookline High, Boston, where he is credited with a great reputation as a prep quarterback, having made the all-State team for the past two seasons at this berth. He will have to displace Walt Commack, last year's gritty little veteran, who made such a wonderful showing in all the games. Walt needed an understudy last year, and the fact that the Quakers are to have two crack quarterbacks should add at least 10 per cent to the efficiency of the team.

The line is to be intact again with the exception mentioned above, McCaslin and Carlisle, Captain-elect Hiest, Stone, Lewis, Burkin and Newlin are all due to be out soon, while Cooker Holton, all-star center last year, will answer the call as soon as he has recovered from his recent sick spell.

Raymond, who starred in the game with the Colorado Miners last year, is expected to show early form this season, and Wilson considers him a tower of strength both on the offense and defense.

Among the most promising new men are McBurney, the 200 pound guard from Whittier High; "Stew" Smith, tackle; Findlay, guard, and Cook and Shierman for ends.

PEERLESS TRUCK USED TO BUILD BETTER HIGHWAYS.

TO SPREAD oil on roads for a distance of twenty miles or more from the starting point and to spread it at a rate of 200 feet or more would seem to be an extremely difficult undertaking requiring a lot of apparatus and a lot of men. But by the ingenious use of a Peerless five-ton truck the road commission of Los Angeles county, Cal., accomplished it with one man and one piece of machinery.

The truck is fitted with a 1000-gallon oil tank, which is covered with a coating of asbestos two inches thick to retain heat, oil is run into the tank 44 deg. Fahrenheit. Thanks to the asbestos protection and the speed the truck can make, it is possible to make a trip of 45 or 46 miles before the oil gets too cold for use.

Air pressure of 60 pounds to the square inch is maintained inside by an air compressor.

Knox-Martin tractor attached to a fire engine and used as blaze-destroyer. This is the latest use to which the Knox has been placed and the truck is making good in many large cities, and, according to James J. Canavan of the Vance-Canavan Company, is just the thing for Los Angeles department.

QUAKER GRIDIRON MEN AGAIN LOOK DANGEROUS.

WHITTIER COLLEGE, Sept. 6.—The perpetual dark horses of Southern California football are to get started this week. In fact "Hornet" Coach Russell's team, the Quaker gridiron men, is out and along.

Stanley Smith, in the line, is the star of the team. He is a young man from Los Angeles, and is a very promising player. He is a very promising player.

That a book-keeper or clerk, employed in an office or factory has no right to use the company's cars purchased for, or used by, its salesmen, is the gist of an important decision of the Ohio Supreme Court. In the particular case referred to, the book-keeper of the White Oak Coal Company of St. Louis took a car belonging to the company and used it to deliver a set of papers and books in the company's service. While on this errand he ran the car so carelessly as to injure a person crossing the street. His employers were sued for damages, because the car was being used by the book-keeper in a discharge of a duty for the company. The judge, however, found that he had no express or implied authority to use the car for this purpose, and that his taking it was not at all part of his duties. He was not an "authorized agent" within the meaning of the law.

CHANGES FOR NEW CHALMERS.

Motor Will Remain Just the Same.

But Curbed Fenders Will Be Adopted.

Placing of Tool Box and Speedometer.

The past year has been such a success for the Chalmers Motor Car Company that the announcement of the new 1914 model is awaited with a great deal of interest. It is understood that the 16 four-cylinder car will continue to be the feature of the line while the six will be the last word in motor-car construction.

Some of the facts that have leaked out in regard to the new four-cylinder car are very interesting. The most noticeable body changes will be the adoption of curbed fenders which seem to grace the whole chassis. The placing of the tool box under the front foot boards has left the running board clean. In addition the speedometer has been set back an angle so that the driver need only turn his head to the left to read the speed at which he is traveling.

The motor itself has received no change whatever. The dual ignition using the split-disk magnet, and the Rayfield carburetor are continued as are the Chalmers starter and the Gray and Davis lighting system. The drive to the motor is through a disk clutch and then through a four speed selective gear set which is a unit with the motor. The gear ratio is 1.75 to 1. Right drive and right gearshift is still continued, while the 35 by 4 tires all around the 18 wheels will be the same as last year.

BERKELEY BRIEFS.

[Berkeley Correspondence of The Times.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Sept. 5.—Freshmen regatta west down to defeat yesterday afternoon when they met Fremont High School. The prep got the winning score and the only point in the game, when they were awarded a penalty kick close to the goal posts. The kick came early in the first period and changed the score board from 0, 0, to 1, 0, in which shape it remained for the balance of the game.

In aggressiveness the freshmen showed much improvement, but their work is still very ragged. Eagerness to follow up the ball without continuous prompting is a mighty good indication. The forwards came in for the brunt of the hard work in the contest, and though at times they were badly disconcerted they managed to put a gratifying dash of "pep" into the work.

The backs were often out of position and several times failed to receive passes which had in them the possibility of substantial gain. The backs' picking will have to come in for much improvement, for they are rather untidy and several alleged kick-to-touch lost ground instead of gaining. But these are things that the next six weeks are certain to make a great change in, and by the time of the U.S.C. game the babes should be pretty thoroughly schooled.

The swimming team now counts forty-five men. Practice in the tank is carried on daily.

The Dawn of a Better Business Day

Modern business gets its profits out of what it saves. Even small economies amount to big annual dividends. If we can show you how to cut delivery costs with the Reo Motor Truck, we have shown you how to increase your profits.

When The Truck Comes In, The Horse Goes Out

In many towns, nearly all the delivery work is done by Reo Trucks. Every truck we sell becomes a working example of delivery efficiency and economy to other merchants. When the business man gets to thinking of what it costs to keep a horse in feed, shoes, and stable care, and then stops to consider that the horse returns for this care only about forty hours of uncertain labor each week, the Reo Truck his neighbor is running begins to look like the real solution of the problem.

Compare with horses the efficiency of the big, sturdy Reo Model J Truck. It will easily carry a load that would be hard pulling for a strong team of horses. It will work 24-hours a day, if necessary, and be ready in fifteen minutes for another 24 hours' work. When it is not at work, its upkeep costs nothing. Instead of half an hour's disagreeable stable care, your driver need give his car only a few minutes' care, and this he really enjoys.

Every Reo Truck Is a Money Maker for Its Owner

We will not willingly sell a Reo Truck to any man unless we are reasonably sure it will make money for him. When conditions are right for the use of a motor truck, we know that the Reo Truck will meet those conditions as no other truck of equal capacity can.

Reo efficiency is tried, tested, and proven. Read, for example, the following record of a single day's performance of a Reo Model J 2-ton Truck owned by the Schramm Grocery Co., Flat River, Mo.

"Five round trips in one day to four outlying towns, average load 4,000 lbs. Total mileage 62. Gasoline consumed 8 gallons. On these roads twenty miles with a two-ton load would be a long day's work for a team of horses."

8 gals. gasoline at 20c..... $1.60
Tire Cost, 60 mil. at 2c..... 1.20
Driver's wages, one day..... 1.50
Depreciation at $650 per year..... .25
Repairs and overhauling at $150 yr..... .25
Interest on investment..... .25
Fire insurance..... .25
Oil and grease..... .25
Total daily expense..... $3.50

Thus this truck did the work of three teams, which with wagons and harness would cost $2.100. The daily cost was only $3.50, while three teams would cost for feed alone $7.50.

A Simple Way to Judge Truck Values

Perhaps you are sufficiently versed in technical values to judge of the unusual importance of the many exclusive features that Reo experience and organization have enabled us to put into this wonderful truck.

The impregnable armored frame, the Reo sectional radiator, with its 24 independent interchangeable units, the left side drive and center control, the Reo hydraulic speed governor, the famous Reo motor cushioned against vibration and road shocks, to mention but a few points of obvious superiority.

But if you are not technically versed in motor car construction, here is a simple statement of business facts:

The average price of 34 competing trucks is $2100, a clear saving of nearly $1,000 in favor of the Reo. What does our competitor offer you that is worth that extra $1,000?

Let Us Talk "Truck" Together

As a business man, you want more facts on this important subject. We have them ready for you. The day you investigate the Reo Motor Truck will mean the dawn of a better business day for you.
